Students gain deeper insight through effort

Through the varied courses, activities, and athletics offered at Snider, hundreds of students found outlets for energy and expression.

Hours of class time were spent in pursuit of knowledge, while free discussion and skeptical questioning were often encouraged as a means of gaining deeper insight into current events.

Fine arts students gained the opportunity to express themselves through music, drama, and art.

Boys involved in athletics found the hours of grueling practice and literal physical exhaustion worthwhile when Panther teams brought home numerous victories. The value of team as well as individual effort was fully appreciated.

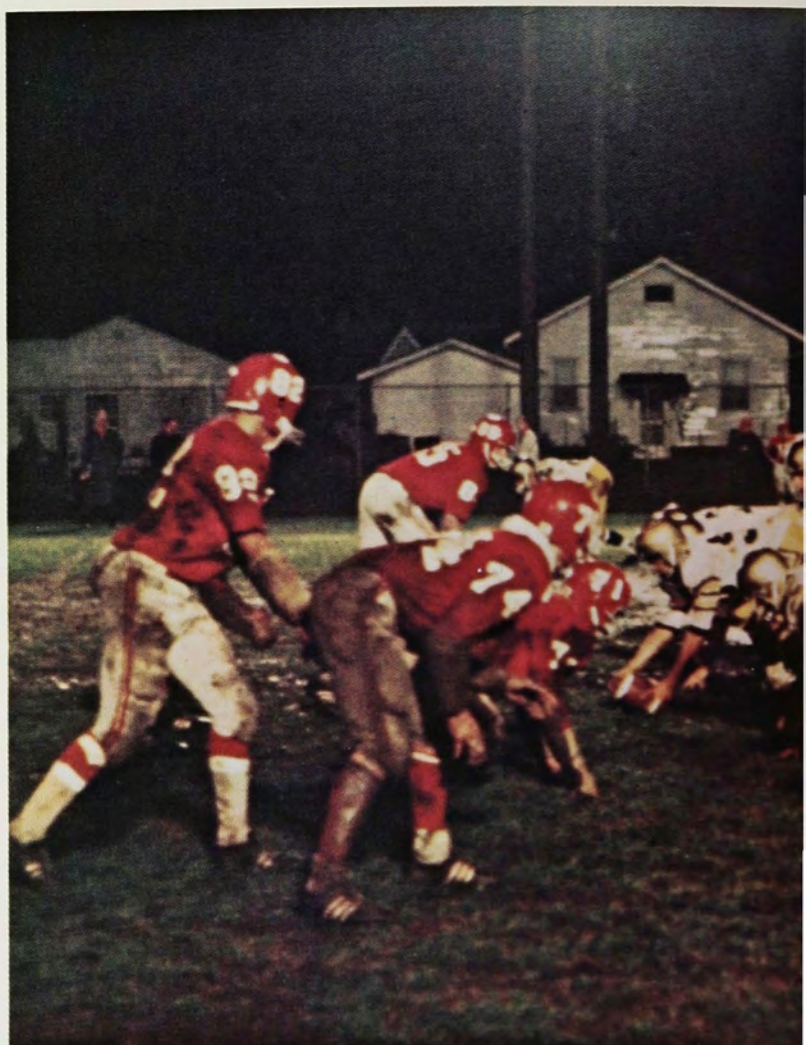

Right: Dave Troxel, Sue Dayton, and Liz Teetor strive to perfect their portrayals of Keller, Helen, and Annie Sullivan. Below: Leading one of Snider's most successful swim teams as captain, senior Jeff Sturges also broke two school records.

Students engage time in fun, relaxation

School was not always the tense dread of final exams, boring lectures, or routine schedules. Whether it was rumbling pep sessions, formal assemblies, quiet (?) study halls, or humorous pranks, something new or different was always occurring to keep students alert and interested.

Slapstick comedy skits during pep sessions, slumbering students in study hall, and assemblies featuring nuclear physics or folk-rock added variety and amusement to many school days.

Teachers often found surprises awaiting them, especially around birthdays. During April, anonymous "elves" roamed the halls leaving goodies for faculty members as part of their FTA teacher appreciation month.

Innovations change Panther environment

Changes new to SHS this year gave Panthers the opportunity to broaden their understanding and determine daily schedules.

A mechanized language lab added to room 235 consisted of a master control center and earphone and mouthpiece units which could be lowered from the ceiling on metal troughs and distributed to individuals.

New daily scheduling was offered this year to seniors on an experimental basis. First period began at 8:05 followed by homeroom, and second period. Seniors having first period study halls could choose a 2—7 period schedule, while those with seventh period study halls could elect a 1—6 period schedule. Many seniors took advantage of the extra hour eliminated from school time.

Top: Making use of the new language lab in room 235 are several Spanish students. Troughs containing earphones are lowered from the ceiling. Above: Seniors listen intently during an assembly in the auditorium, as assistant principal James Weaver explains the experimental daily scheduling for seniors.

Construction begins on fire station, track

Construction around Snider ranged from the building of a controversial fire station to the beginnings of a new rubberized track.

Though an Indiana Supreme Court ruling a few years ago made transfer of land from school to city technically illegal, construction continued on Fire Station 14, on former Lane Jr. High School land allotted to the city by Fort Wayne Community Schools. Disputes between school, city, and township officials questioned and defended the location of the fire station, but it has now become a permanent part of the SHS area.

Construction on Snider's new rubberized track was begun early this fall, on the south side of the building. Work lagged during the below-zero winter months; thus, Panther trackmen returned to practice sessions in Glenwood Park, and races around Snider's science wing, jokingly dubbed the "Destruction Derby."

Right: Due to the numerous fire alarms in the Snider area, the Fire Department realized the need for a new fire station. Below: Almost completed despite protests raised by citizens and city officials, Fire Station 14 is located across from Snider.

Snider's new "starting five," Anne Barch, Linda Stedman, Lark Nahrwold, Lynn Monschein, and Barb Young sing "On the first day of practice" at the Christmas pep assembly.

Sportsmanship committee arouses spirit

Keeping Snider's halls decorated with banners, effigies, "cemeteries," and other symbols of Panther victories was the important duty of the Sportsmanship Committee. Besides signs depicting

"Super Panthers," the members also made a "pawed" North Side Redskin teepee.

Cast of "The Miracle Worker" presents

Below: Cradling Helen in her arms, Kate cries out in disbelief when Helen at last understands the relationship of words and objects.

Bruised knees, a broken tooth, exhausting scenes, and grueling hours of practice . . . a devoted cast and crew . . . and the near-professional portrayals of Annie Sullivan, Helen Keller, and Mrs. Keller by Liz Teetor, Sue Dayton, and Jill Armstrong combined to make this year's senior play the most superb performance Snider has ever seen.

William Gibson's highly emotional drama, The Miracle Worker, is the story of Helen Keller's struggle, as a deaf, blind, and mute child, to overcome these barriers and experience the gift of language and understanding. Through the untiring patience of Annie Sullivan, her teacher, Helen finally emerges from her darkened, mysterious world when she first associates the word "water" with the substance itself.

cast plays to three capacity crowds

"I'm the greatest, greatest star!" And thus Fanny Brice, the famed Broadway singer and comedienne of the 1920's, launched her career. The story of Fanny Brice, Funny Girl, was presented by the Fine Arts Department as its annual spring musical.

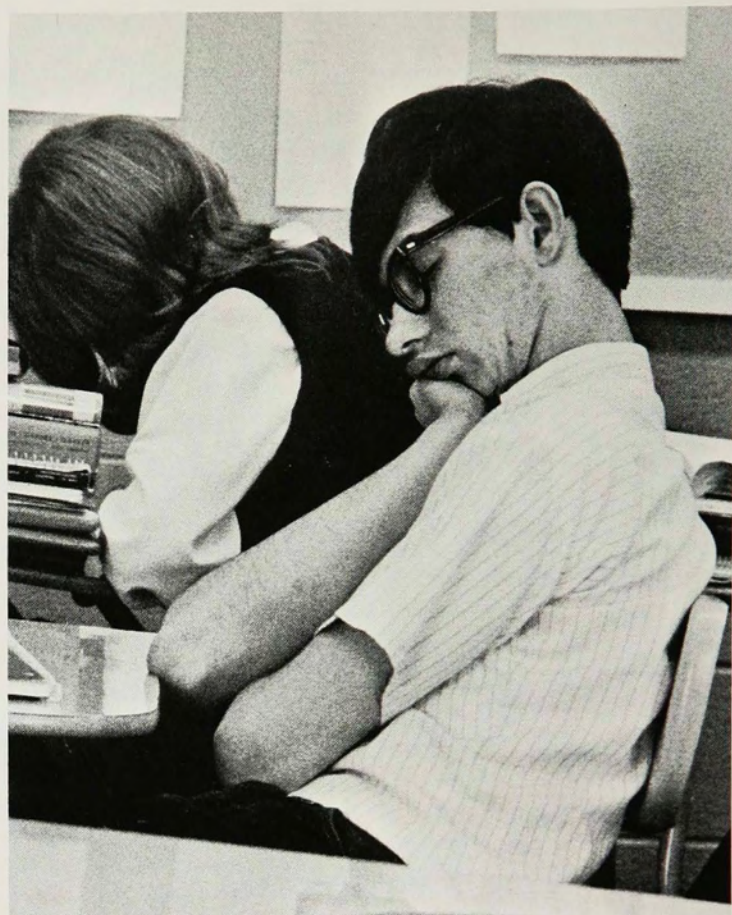

Tryouts for the March premiere were in January, and found seniors Liz Teetor and Wayne Bloomquist in the leading roles of Fanny and Nicky Arnstein. Other major roles were Fanny's mother portrayed by junior Judy Meyer, and Eddie, played by junior Mark Bloomquist.

Scores of other students were showgirls, dancers, neighbors, and friends. Dozens of volunteers helped backstage with props, lighting, sound effects, and makeup. The combined efforts of the pit orchestra, cast, stage crew, and directors can be attributed the tremendous success of Funny Girl, which played to three capacity crowds in the auditorium.

Medieval knights, a moat and drawbridge, cobblestone paths, and a stone wishing well combined to create the gymnasium into a castle courtyard for the 1970 senior prom, "A Time For Us." The love song of Romeo and Juliet was played twice during the evening to complement the theme and decorations.

Seniors and their dates entered the prom over a drawbridge and were given small cream-colored programs accented with red print and a red tassel, to match the prom colors of silver, gray, red, and blue. Small flags and coats-of-arms also adorned the walls along with mock-stone facades and shiny armored knights.

The spell of medieval Italy during the days of Romeo and Juliet lasted from 9:30 to midnight, when the magic was ended and only memories remained.

Questioning, searching challenge students

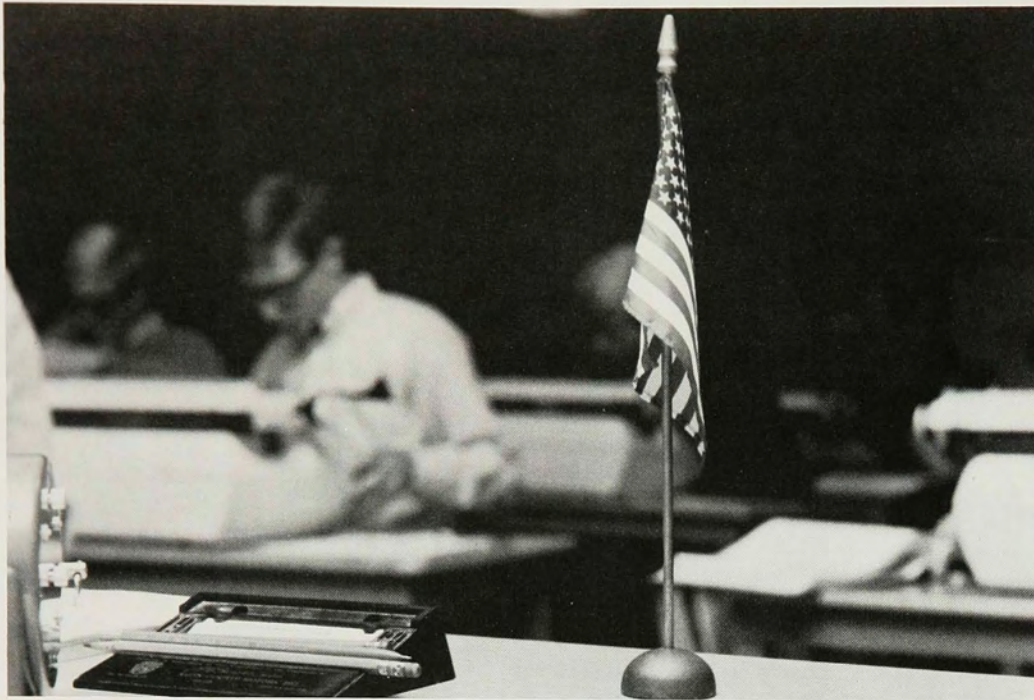

Academics

Geared to fast-paced, ever-changing spheres of intellectual concepts, technical advancements, and political ideals, the diversified curriculum at Snider sought to accommodate the individual in his chosen field. Specialized on-the-job training was emphasized through vocational education, while theoretical and applied studies in mathematics and science expanded college-bound students' knowledge of the physical universe.

Each course was designed to meet the needs of young adults in an accelerated, complex world.

Business Department

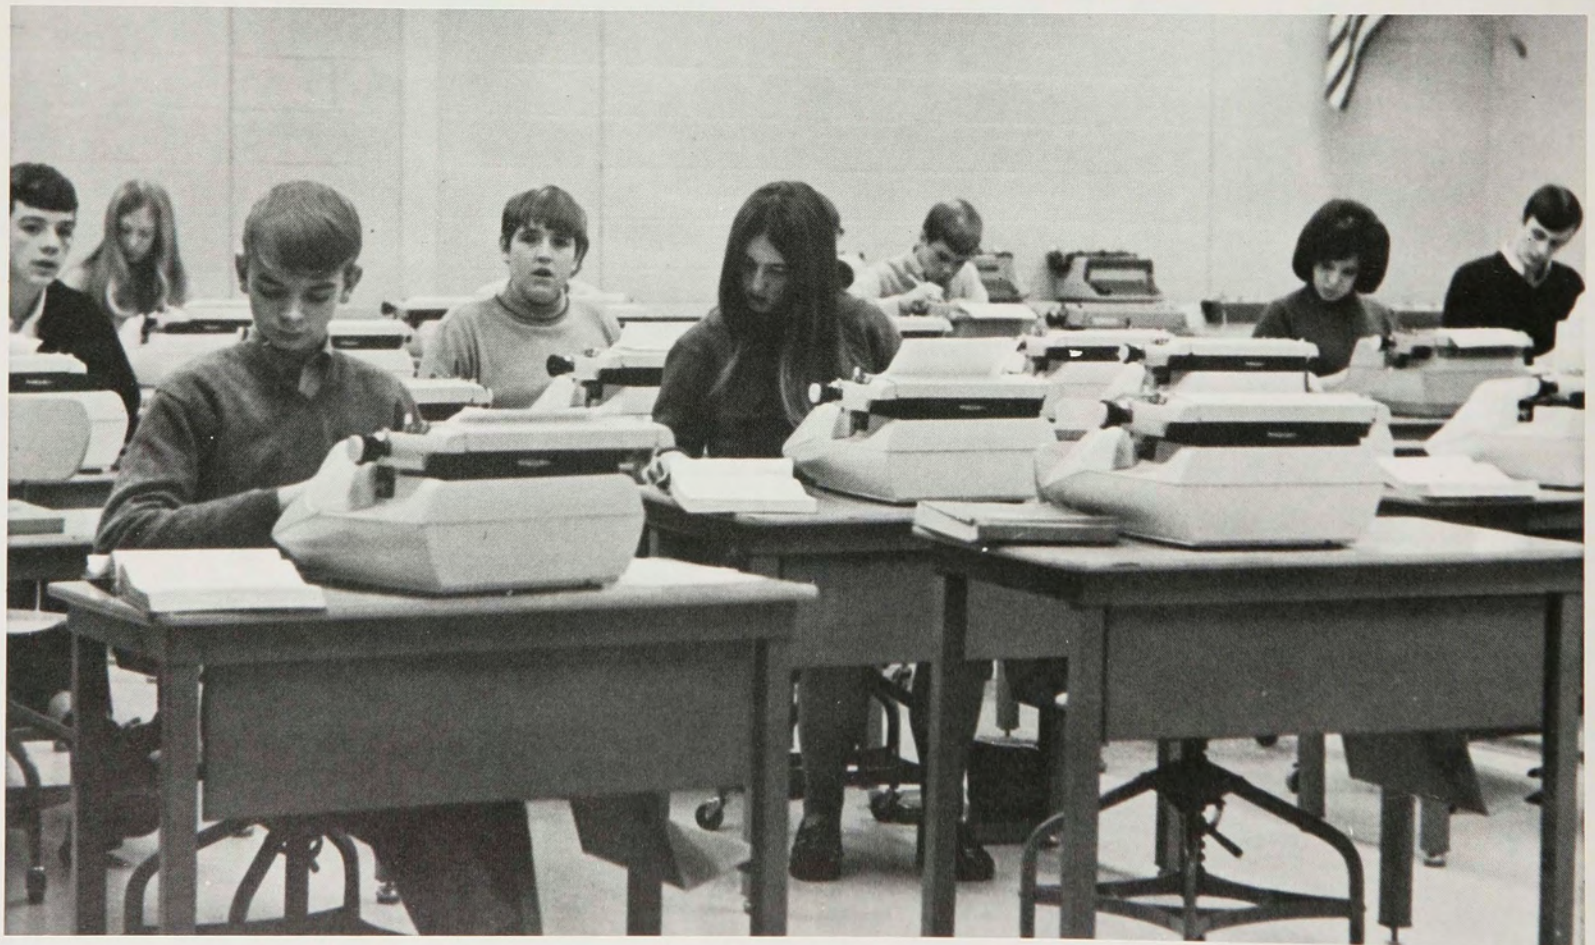

Prepares future secretaries, clerks

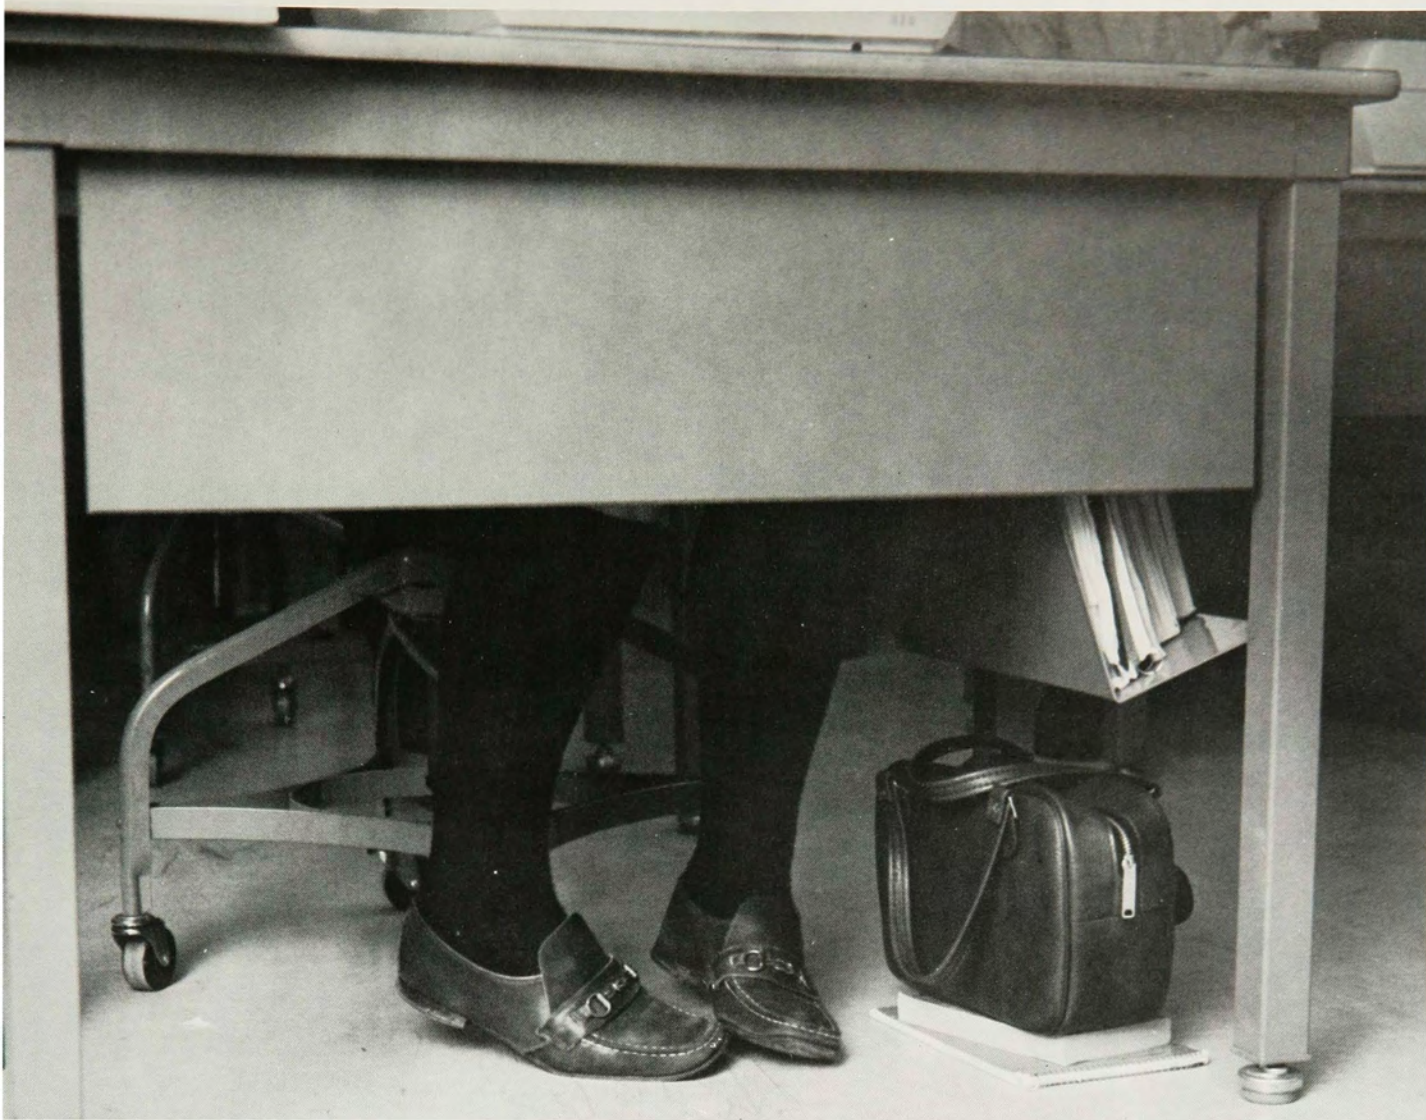

A personal typing class recedes into a blurred background as the American flag stands on the teacher's desk in sharp focus.

Modern equipment and a large variety of business courses help to prepare Panthers for a future in the world of business. Such clerical skills as typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping are taught.

Students taking any of the three typing courses, find it to be useful in typing research papers and other assignments along with being just plain fun. Future secretaries find that note taking in their other classes can be made much easier by studying shorthand. General Business, Consumer Economics, and Business Law are courses that help to give students a basic idea of what the business world is all about.

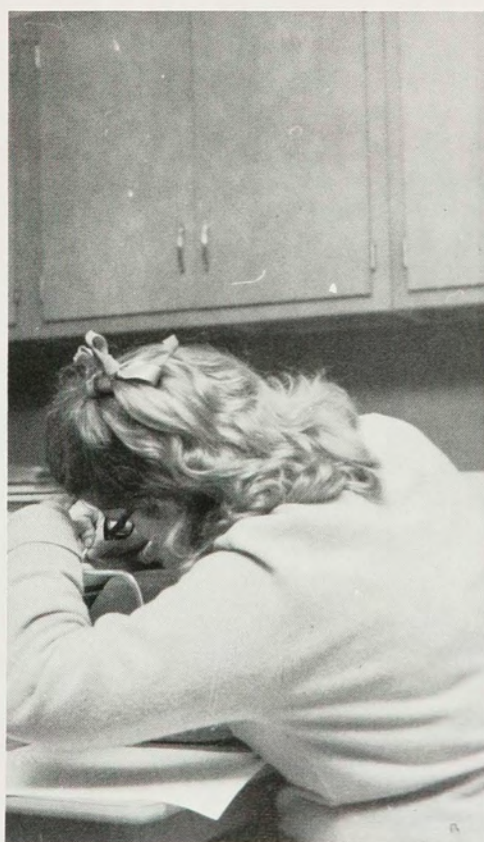

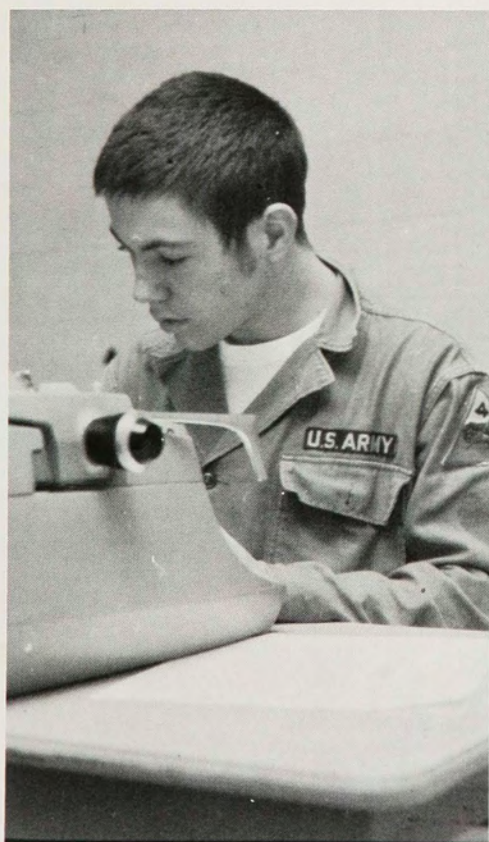

Transcribing letters from the textbook, with occasional (?) erasures and fresh starts, onto paper occupies typing students' time as they complete a daily assignment.

The tension and concentration of taking dictation in shorthand class can be seen in the feet of one student as she attempts to improve her speed and accuracy for future clerical or secretarial jobs.

Typing students work to improve skills by timed writings, which stress speed and accuracy, but unfortunately they must learn by their mistakes as they stop for erasures and ribbon adjustments.

English Department

Stresses skills in reading, writing

Above: Mrs. Elizabeth Posey holds the Elster Language Arts Writing Award plaque, a newly instituted award at Snider. The name of John Taylor, the first winner, was inscribed on the plaque. Right: Timed readers increase reading speed while improving comprehension through the use of small projectors and slide-tapes.

Last minute hurrying to finish a book report . . . hours spent at the library working on a term paper . . . the moment of truth when standing up to give a class lecture on the novel analysis . . .

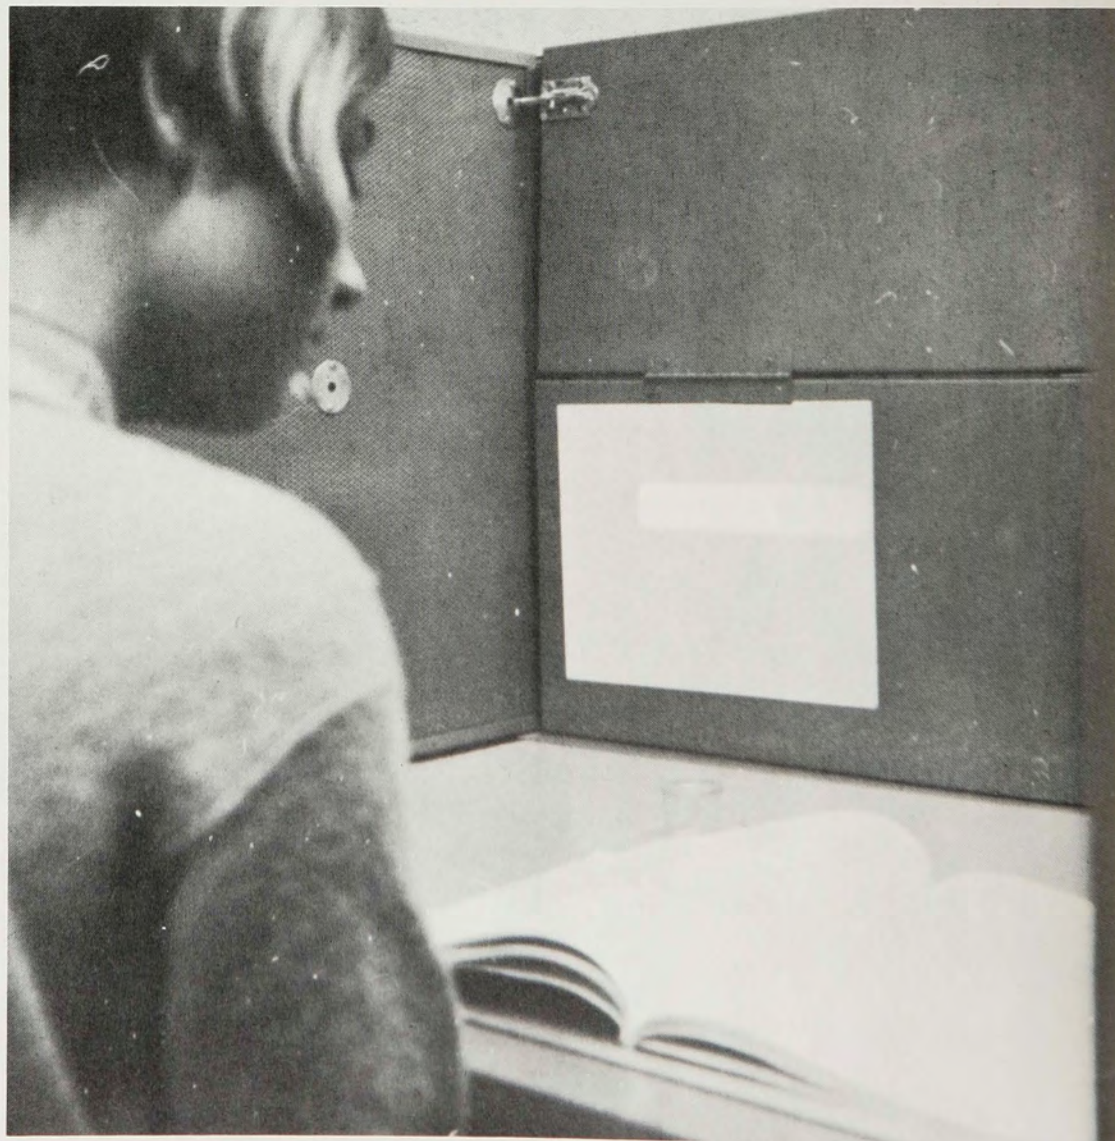

Snider students find that the English Department offers much more than sentence-diagramming and the language mechanics to the inquisitive student. The three years of required English courses give a student a broad background of study to develop proficiency in reading comprehension and writing.

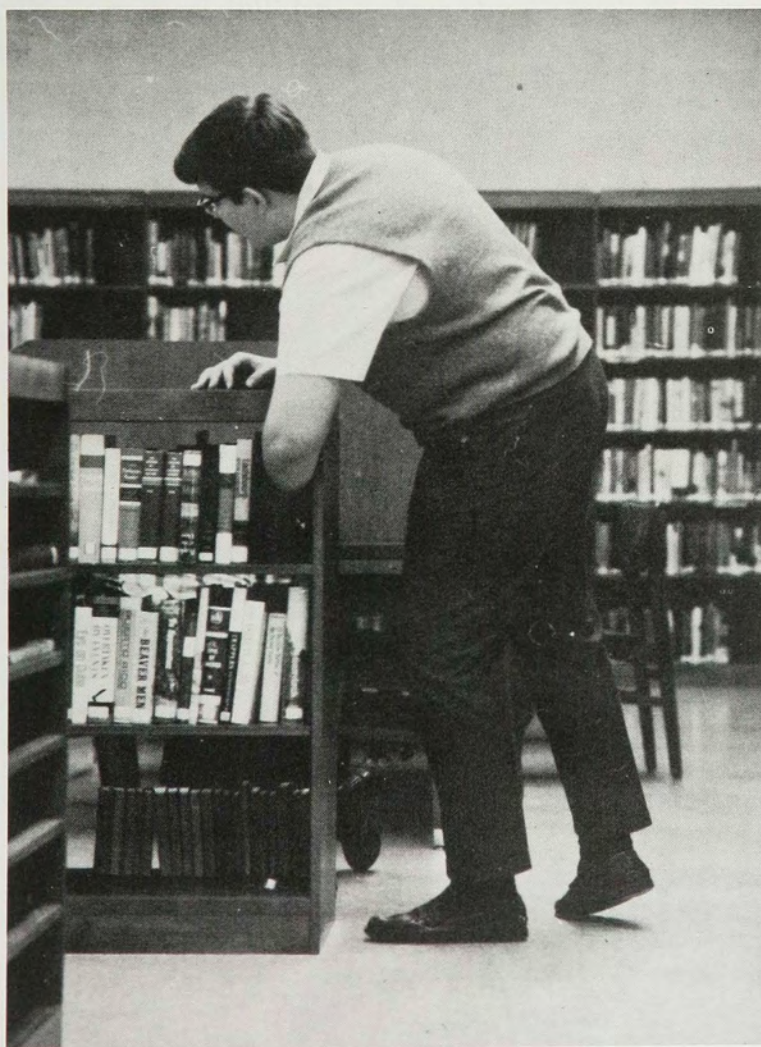

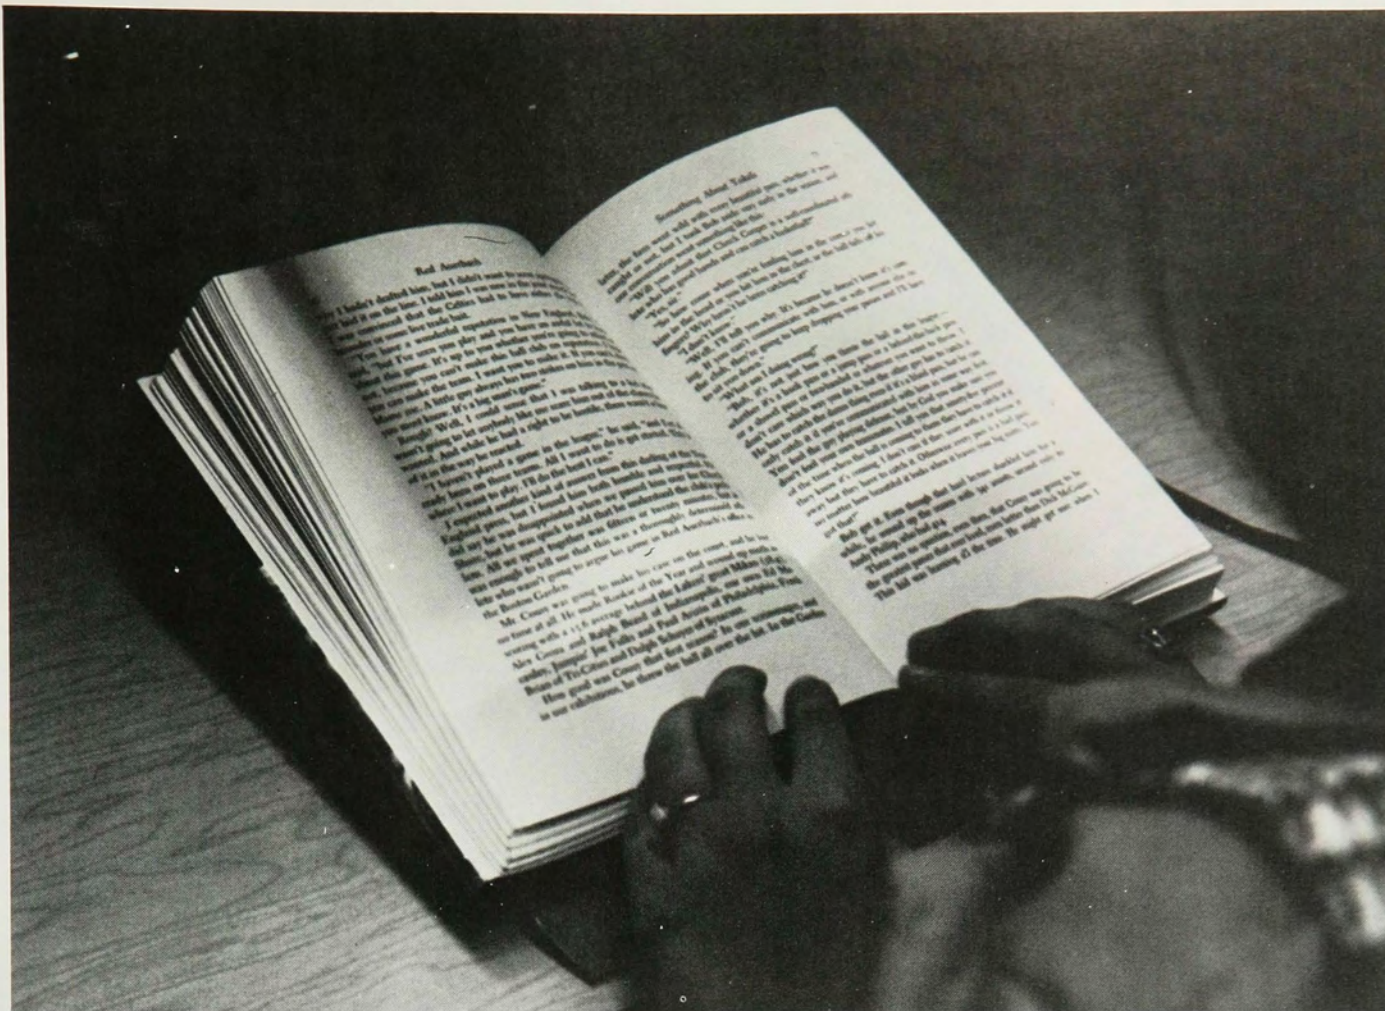

The three years involve studies in American, English, and World

Literature as well as required projects such as themes, book reports, term papers, and the senior novel analysis.

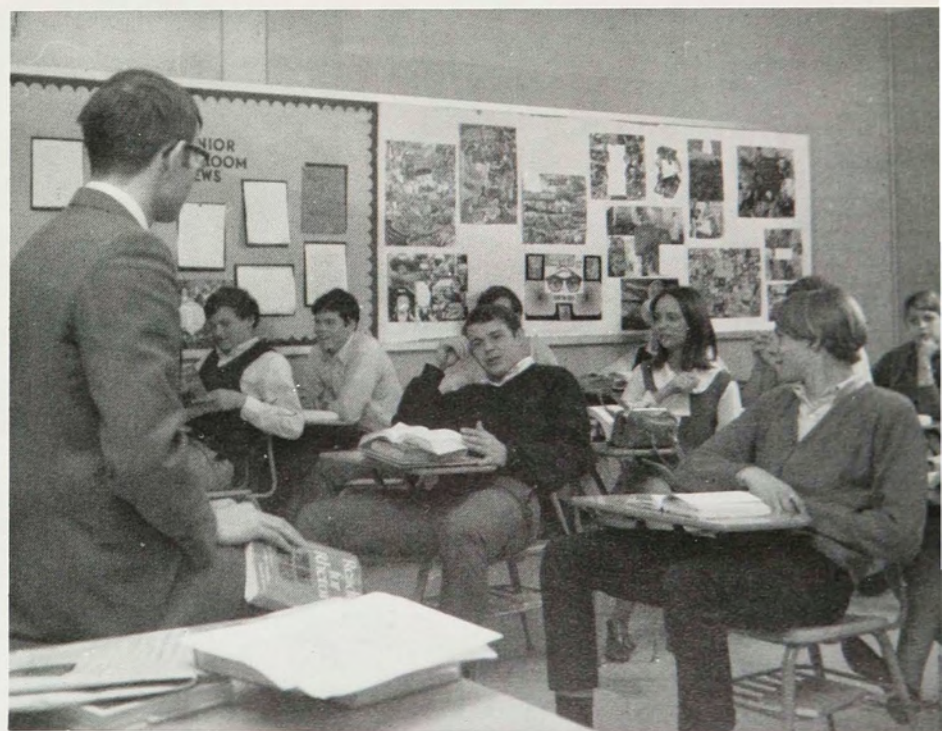

Also included in the English Department are elective courses in speech, journalism, and reading lab so that students may extend their knowledge to more specialized fields of English.

Through required and elective courses, the department tries to develop articulate and clear-thinking citizens that not only have command of their language but also an understanding of its scope and power.

Left: Fiction books, a large part of the library's facilities, draws the greatest number of students looking for books for reports, term papers, and hourlies. Fine Arts Department

Employs free expression

Working as individuals or as a group, Panthers use their creative abilities to give form to their imaginations. Whether the abilities lie in the field of art, music, or drama, Snider's Fine Arts Department provides ample facilities for students to learn, create, and display their work.

Sketching, working with clay, silk screens, and various other media, the artists learn the skills and the history of their art as well as developing an appreciation of it. The products of their work are found in the halls throughout the year for display.

The music department is active in providing music for half-time at games, various concerts during the year, ensemble and organizational contests, and this year an invitational concert at Ball State.

In drama, students work in skits during Sketchbook and Christmas concert while the Stagecraft classes provide scenery and props for the plays.

The combined efforts of all sections of the Fine Arts Department went into the production of the spring musical, "Funny Girl."

Foreign Language Department

Offers study of foreign culture, history

Above: Receiving a pin for excellence in French, senior John Taylor shakes hands with Mrs. Sofia Rodriguez, foreign language department chairman. Below: Fourth year Spanish students perform "Los Viejitos," or "The Little Old Men," a dance from Mexico.

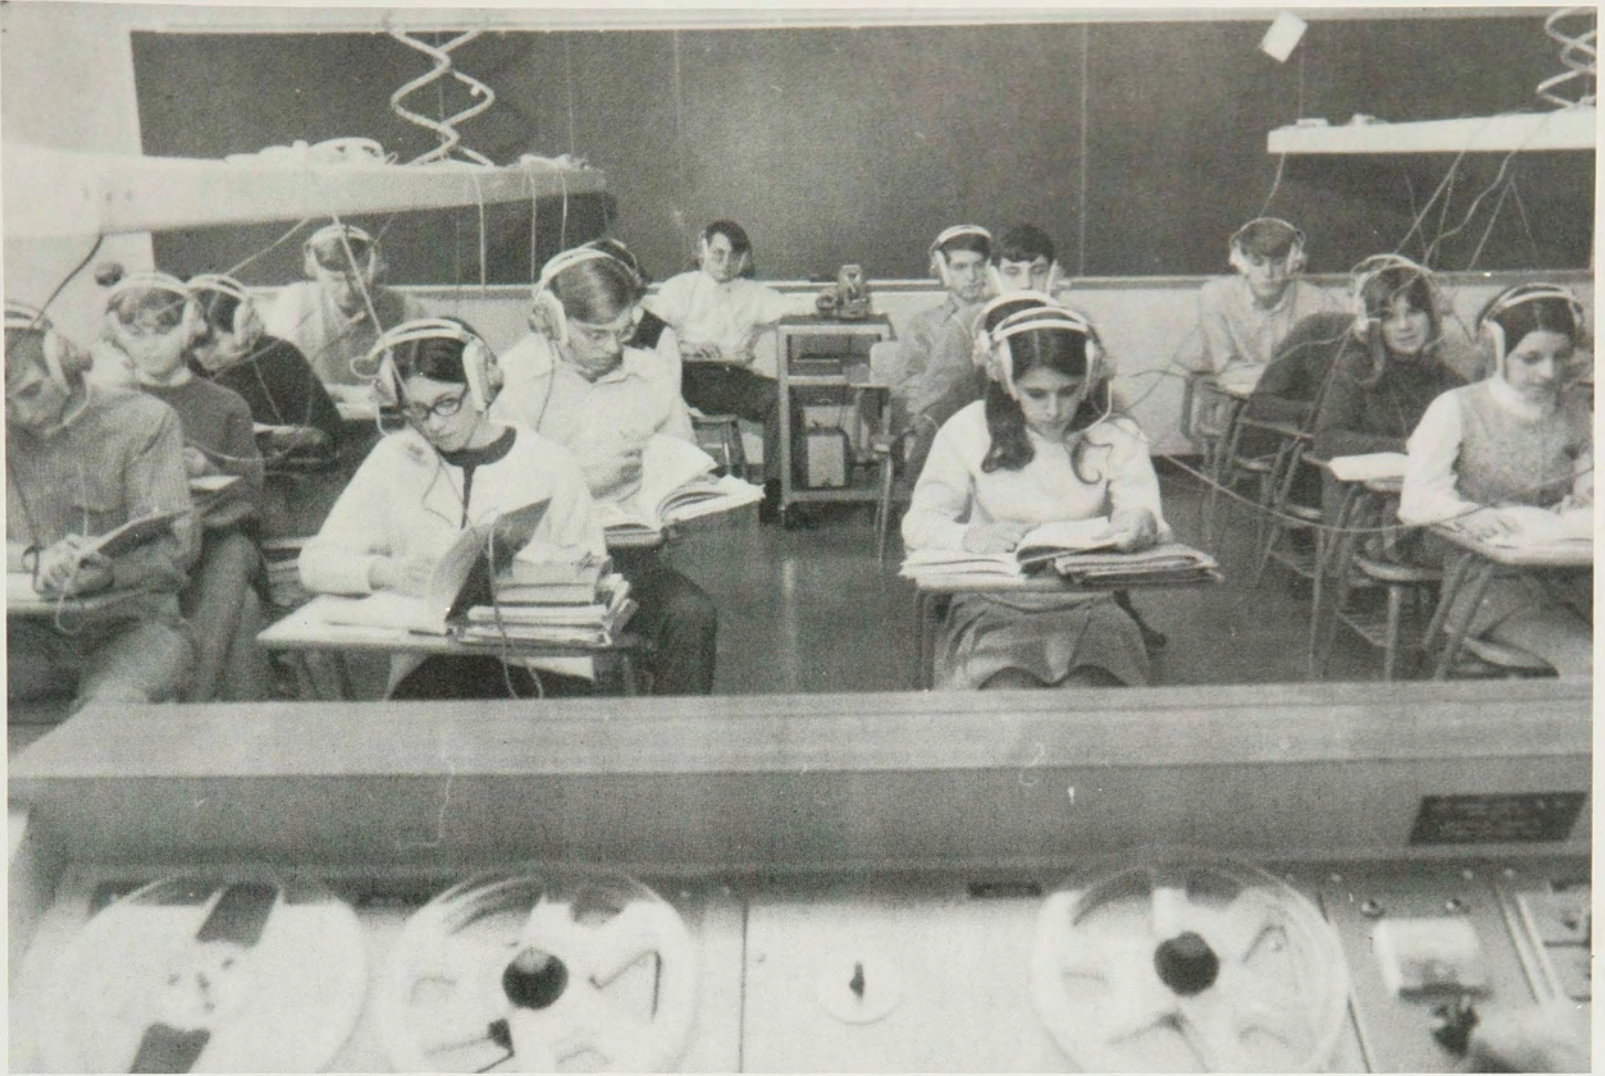

Sprechen Sie Duetsch? Habla Espanol? Parlez vous Francais? Ja, si, or oui would be the three modern languages offered at Snider. In studying the languages, students attempt to immerse themselves in the language by studying the customs, history, and literature of the parent countries.

A student who greets a friend with a Salvete, would probably be a member of one of the Latin classes, in which the studies include reading selections from Ovid and Cicero as well as studying Roman politics, mythology, and religion.

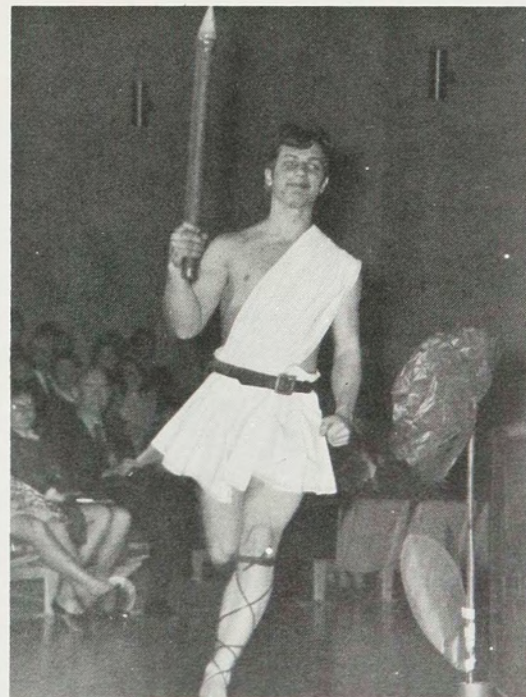

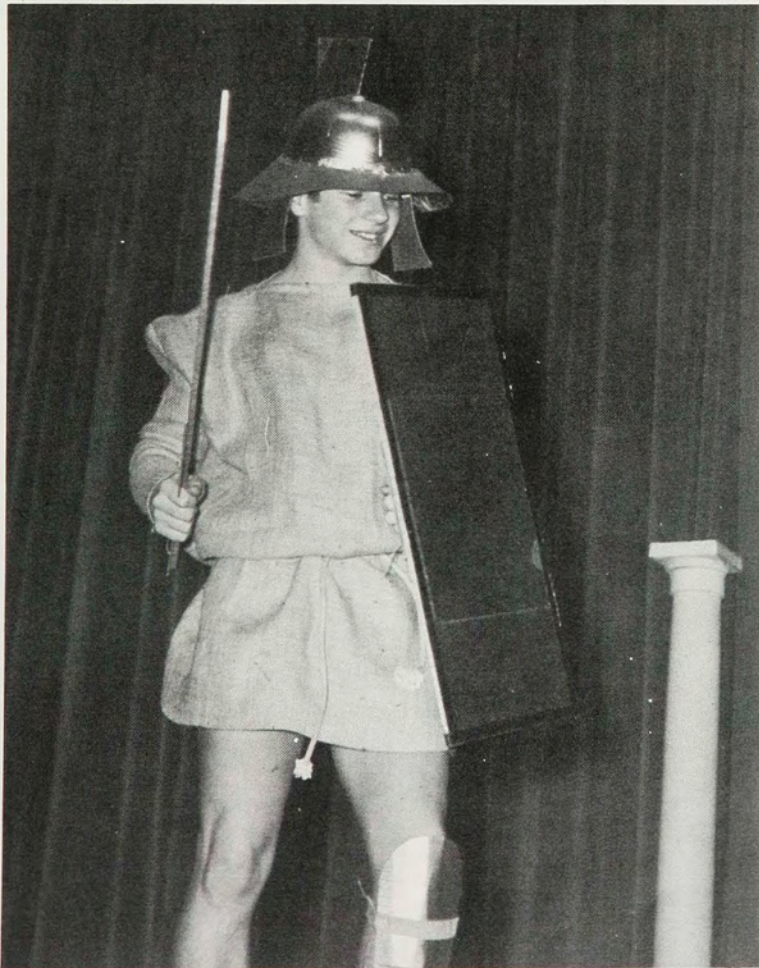

To help students in their studies, classes often include performing skits, listening to music from the parent countries, and writing to pen pals. The language labs give students the opportunity to hear natives speaking the language and to record their own responses to questions.

During the second semester students have the opportunity to prepare skits for the language festival.

Clear logical minds are the badges of Snider's mathematics students as they solve with ease the solutions for quadratic equations, the proof of similar triangles, the characteristic of a field, or the elimination of a parameter.

Snider's Mathematics Department offers seven courses to students. They range from math topics and geometry to trigonometry and advanced algebra. This variety of courses provides instruction in the basic skills of math as well as more advanced topics such as modern abstract algebra which prepares more advanced students for college calculus.

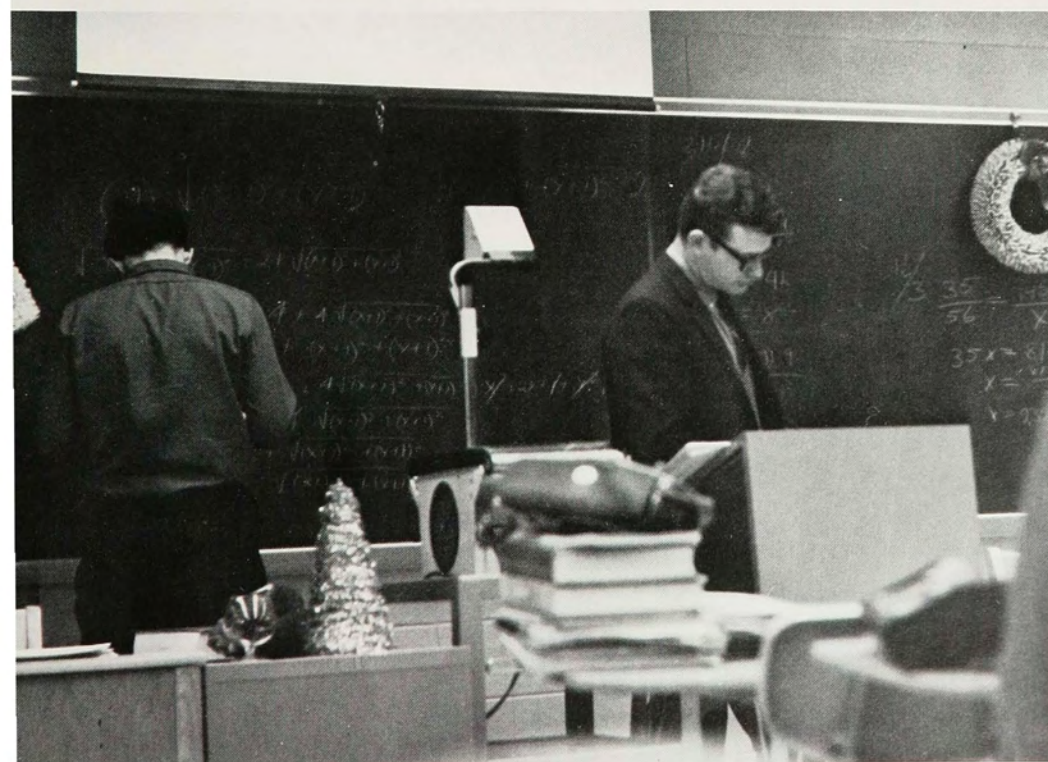

In the hope that a strong background in mathematics will help to prepare students for jobs and college, the Mathematics Department strives to develop in students the ability to think clearly and logically. This is done by teaching not just the basic manipulation of figures but also the ways in which the formulas and equations can be derived.

Below: Puzzling over the intricacies of a slide rule (popularly referred to as the "slipstick") occupies study hall time for junior Tom White.

Coordinates mind, body through sports

Physical Education to most students at Snider provides an invigorating period of relaxation and change of pace. Striving to develop and improve the physical abilities of its students in all sports, the department offers a wide range of courses. Juniors and seniors are able to choose classes specializing in team and individual sports, modern dance, gymnastics, or weight-lifting. Sophomores are required to take the basic physical education course which teaches them the fundamentals of many sports. Girls are given experience in such sports as tennis, volleyball, tumbling, modern dance, and field hockey, while boys concentrate on developing their skills in the team sports.

Above: Sophomore phys ed girls execute a pom pom routine for the gym show. Below: Basketball forms an integral part of the physical education program for sophomore boys.

Home Economics

Cooking actual meals is an important part of home economics courses. Above, girls prepare a salad as part of their assignment.

Preparing students to meet future domestic problems, the Home Economics Department provides facilities for learning through experience. Through lectures and demonstrations, girls learn the proper manner of caring for children, the nutritional value of various foods, and home management. Projects of designing and furnishing scale model homes are a part of the Housing and Home Management classes. Other classes include instruction about the fundamentals of sewing and cooking in which girls make an outfit for themselves and prepare meals. The purpose of the Home Ec Department is to prepare girls for managing their own homes and for professional jobs that may involve some aspect of Home Economics.

Industrial Arts

Develops skills in woods, metals, drafting

Clouds of sawdust and the roar of machinery were among the sights and sounds of a typical Snider shop class. The classes which were open to both boys and girls, concentrated on the learning of basic skills and the proper use and care of tools. After completing the required projects, students were allowed to work on projects of their own choosing. These ranged from any small project to something as large as a desk. The metal classes centered on projects involving welding. During the second semester, members of the advanced carpentry class were kept busy by making several of the difficult props used in Funny Girl.

Science Department Focuses on

Exploring the universe of the invisible constitutes one important aspect in zoology class. Mary Doughton inspects a tiny organism as she gazes through one of the lab's microscopes.

Above: In the familiar surroundings of the chemistry lab, first year students direct their thoughts to the completing of one of the department's "30" tests.

experimentation, "wondering why"

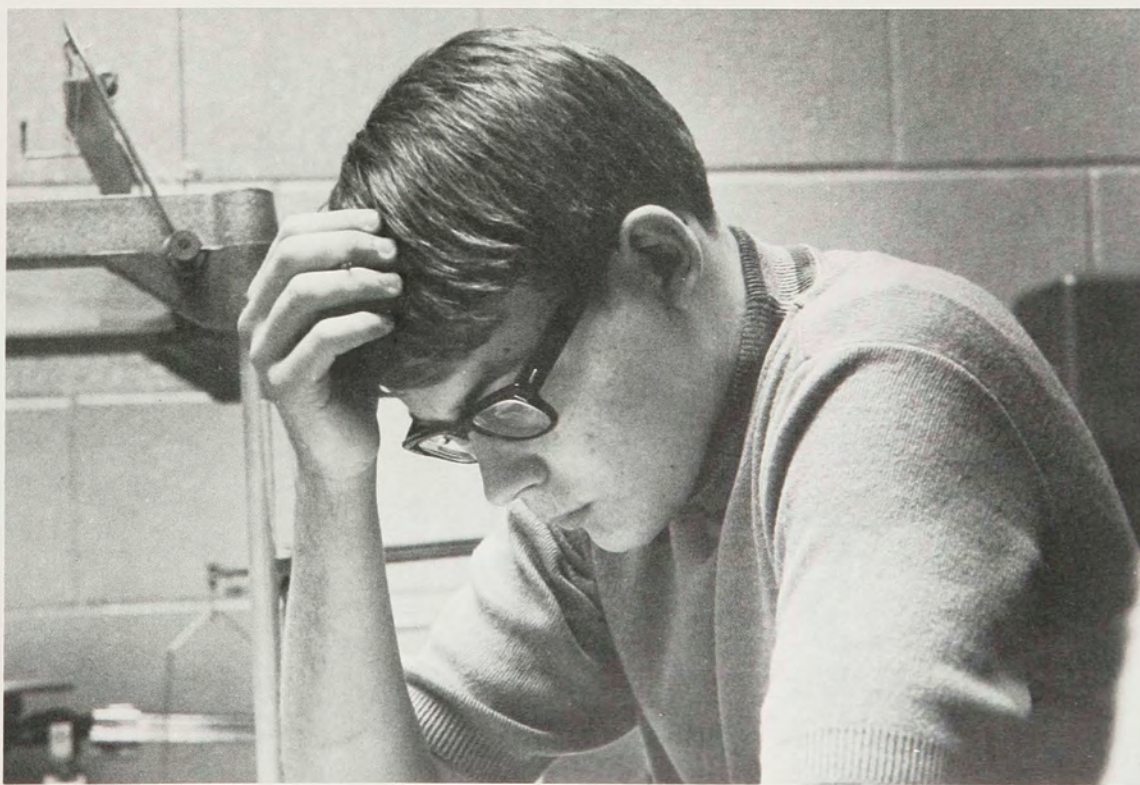

Whether the task be the dissection of a shark, the titration of an acid solution, or the calculation for the change of momentum during a collision, Panthers enthusiastically investigated the wonders of the scientific world.

Students interested in the fields of physiology or genetics may take zoology in which they study the life processes in animals through lab experiments as well as through diligent study. Chemistry and Advanced Chem are offered to those students interested in the chemical aspect of nature. Two courses in physics teach students the properties of motion and energy through experiments in labs and through outside projects and reading.

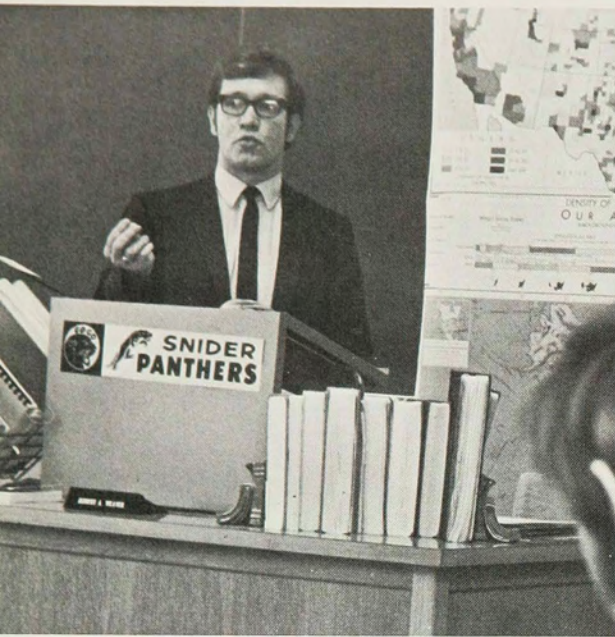

The Science Department attempts to teach the proper use of equipment and the proper procedure to use when approaching a problem so that when a student asks "why?" he is able to answer the question for himself.

Social Studies Department

Increases knowledge of past, present

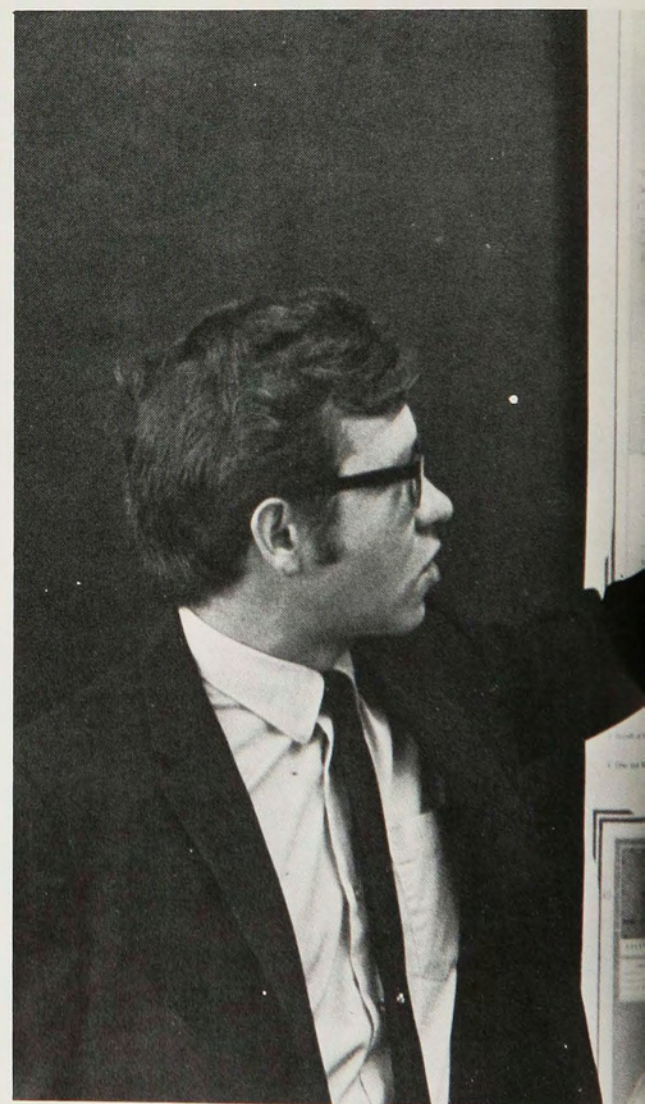

Long discussions, class debates, research papers, and historical films are among the many learning devices used by the Snider Social Studies Department to increase the students' understanding of past and present civilizations. Students are encouraged to express their ideas and to ask questions in order that they might better understand the nations of the world and their relations with each other. World History, which is offered to all sophomores, concentrates on the study of the beginnings of all the major countries of the world. All juniors are required to take United States History. They study in depth the formation and development of our country. In the spring, those interested are able to go on the annual junior class trip to Washington, D.C. to gain a more realistic "feeling" about the events and places that they have studied. Government and either sociology or economics are required courses for seniors. In short, students at Snider learn from the past in preparing for tomorrow.

Competition brings strength in victory, defeat

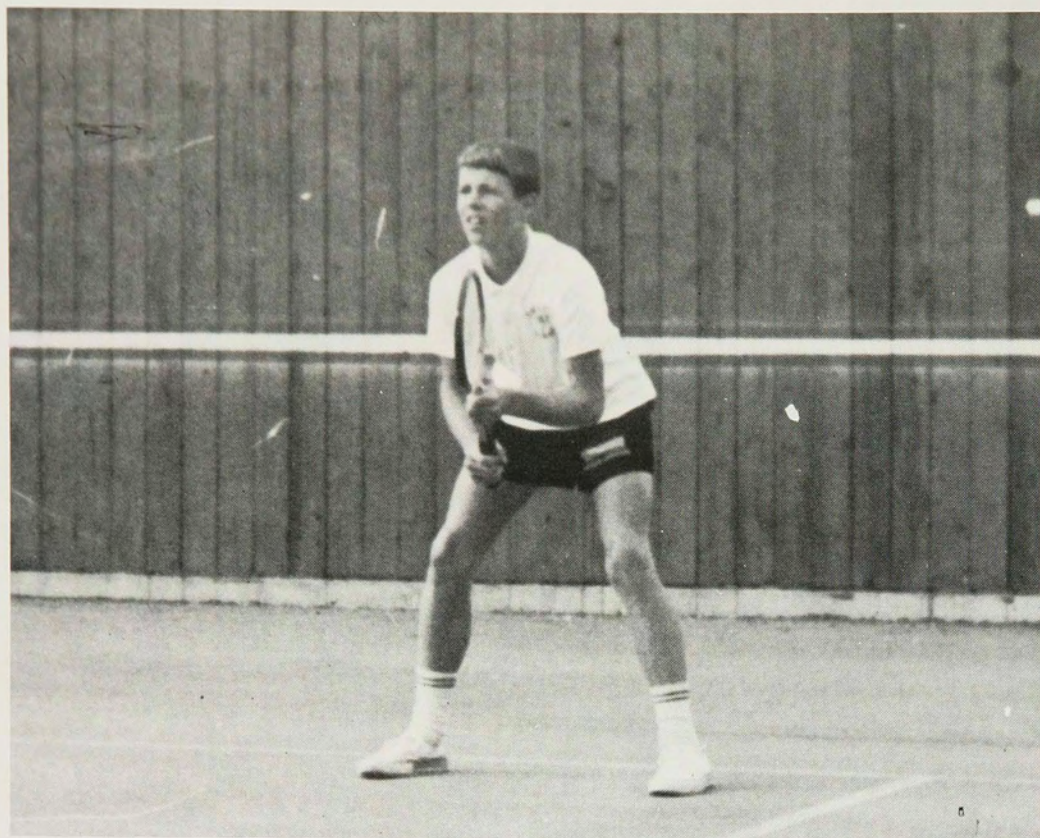

Athletics

The agony of bodies tortured beyond endurance, the merciless passing of final seconds in a grueling competition, the hours of training and practice while homework lies neglected, and the appreciation of united effort are all elements necessary to the building of a true athlete.

The glory and distinction of victory are the ultimate goal, but the growth of strength and maturity which lie in defeat develop aspects of character and sportsmanship.

Taylor leads netmen to 7—5 season

The Snider netmen wound up the season this year with a successful 7—5 record. Coming into the year had both its advantages and disadvantages. It started out with a new coach, a returning sectional winner, but only three returning lettermen. Coach Don Bruick was very pleased at the results of his first season coaching the netmen.

The team's number one man, John Taylor, ended his last season at Snider with a record of one sectional win, and he was undefeated in match play. He was upset in the sectional being defeated by the runner up in state competition.

Coach Bruick hopes for an excellent season next year losing only two boys, Taylor and Mark Baker.

Panther harriers boast 16—5—1 team record

The 1969 Cross Country season marked another successful year for the Snider harriers. The varsity team finished with a strong record of 16 wins, 1 tie, and only 5 losses.

The team, hampered throughout the year by illness and injury, placed a fine sixth at the Shortridge Invitational and fifth at the sectional.

The impressive dual meet record was the major highlight of the season, but tying the defending state champs, North Side, was one of the teams most gratifying accomplishments. The dominations of the East Noble Invitational by a powerful squad of sophomores continued what is hoped to be a Snider tradition.

The team, returning three of the top varsity runners and bolstered by the impressive reserve team, should cause Mr. Ronald Wichern to be anxious to meet the 1970 season.

Outstanding runners this year for the fifth place City-Series Team were; seniors Stan DePew, Marshall Kamer, Keith Slater, and Paul Judge; juniors Mike Cleary and Tony Deutsch; sophomore Ed Vance.

Varsity gridmen attain 6—3 winning record

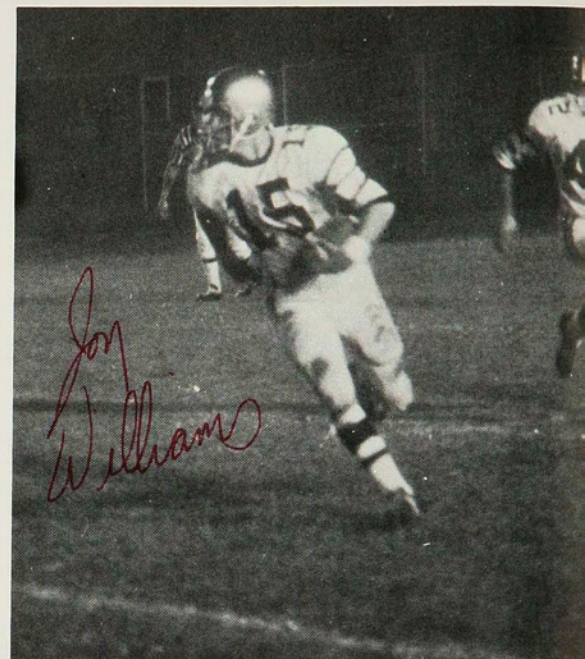

Go a girl I like very much!

The second highest finish in the school's history was attained by the football team with a record of 6 wins and 3 losses. One of the major reasons was namely Mike Lewis who, gaining close to a thousand yards rushing, was on the first-string All-City grid squad, and placed second in the city scoring, with 15 touchdowns and a total of 92 points. Lewis also received an Honorable Mention from the All-State grid team. Along with Lewis on the offense was Quarterback Jon Williams, who successfully piloted the Panthers to many scores. Williams also made first-string All-City grid squad.

One of the standouts on the defense was Brian Sickafoose. Brian received an honorable mention from the All-City, All-State grid squad.

The average points Snider scored on a team was 25; while the opponents averaged only 13. Over the season the team amassed over 230 points, whereas the opposition only 121.

Tankmen retain first place

Another impressive season was posted by the Snider swim team in the 1969-1970 season as they won eleven dual meets while only losing one. A triumph over the defending state champions Kokomo in the early season was particularly satisfying for the team. The mythical city championship remained at Snider also by virtue of the team's two victories over the improved North Side squad.

Individual achievements were prominent this season as six records were broken by Snider swimmers. The medley relay team of Tom Hutchinson, Larry Lindholm, Bill Jeppson, and Scott Brenizer became the team's only Sectional champs and participated in the State Swim Meet at Muncie. Mark Greenlee, Jeff Sturges, and Scott Brenizer all have left their mark on the record book and were top point scorers this season.

The prospects for next season look good as eight letterman are returning and a fine crop of sophomores is expected.

Grapplers retain City Championship

Snider matmen upheld their city championship rating gained last year by turning in an 11-0-1 season mark. Five of those twelve meets were with city teams, all wins except a tie with Fort Wayne Central. On the Sectional level, the Panthers ranked third, placing behind first-place New Haven and second place Central.

Snider sectional winners were senior Mike Lewis, 185 lbs. weight class and junior Bill Green, 107 lbs. class. Both were eliminated in the Regional.

Individual match records were led for the second year in a row by senior Mike Lewis at 22-1. Upon entering the Sectionals, meet records were 98 lbs. Tom Bauerle 14-5, 107 lbs. Bill Green 22-2 115 lbs. Ron Shady 11-6-1, 123 lbs. Dick Steele 10-2, 130 lbs. Randy Secrist 16-4, 136 lbs. Mark Malmstrom 12-4, 145 lbs. Kirk Gump 12-3-1, 155 lbs. Brad Shafer 10-10, 165 lbs. Panthers climb to 10th Finishing 18—2, the Panthers of Snider had the best record to come out of Fort Wayne in 17 years. The team, ranked 10th in state, had hopes of going far. The state championship was not out of the question. Unfortunately, the team was upset in the first round of the sectional by the North Side Redskins with a score of 66—56.

The starting five was made up of seniors 6—9 Dave Elmer, 6—6 Jim Stanczak, 6—3 Brad Hall, and juniors Murray Mendenhall and Jon Williams. The strength of the team can probably be attributed to height. Elmer, second in city for total points scored, was second in height only to North's Doug Brown.

The team also had three strong back-up men who contributed to the strength of the Panthers. Juniors Doug Armstrong and Don Chaney came in handy numerous times when either Elmer or Stanczak got into foul trouble. Brian Sickafoose also helped to strengthen the bench.

To end the season, Elmer, Stanczak, and Hall were honored by being named to the All-City team. Coach Roy Kline was chosen as Coach of the Year by The News Sentinel.

Reserve team displays improvement

The reserve basketball team followed the varsity's example of posting an excellent season record by winning 15 and losing only 5. They also were the Holiday Tourney Champions of the Reserve Tournament held here at Snider.

The reserves were 5-3 on the city level with only Central, Elmhurst, and Bishop Luers managing to defeat the team. The reserves won every game they played this season until the end, when they were defeated twice by two points, twice by three, and once by eight points in the Central game.

Red-headed junior Jeff Schmidt led the team in scoring with an 11.8 average per game and junior Don Rhineholz was second with a 9.8 average.

The C Team finished the season with a 2-5 record.

Chip Novak averaging 38.7. The other team members are seniors Fred DeArmond and John Wray, and juniors Robin Gernhardt and Murray Mendenhall.

Cindermen break five school records

The track team continued its winning tradition this year by posting once again an excellent season record. Spiced with several outstanding individuals, the team broke five existing school records and added fuel to a hot rivalry with the Archers of South Side.

Junior Doug Armstrong attained the highest honor of any Snider athlete this year by placing fourth in the state meet, and continually exciting was the mile relay team who all season posted one of the fastest times in the state and who thrilled the throngs with two terrific duels with South Side at the Sectional and Regional. The team placed second at both levels, losing to the eventual state champions Elkhart in the Regional. Senior long jumper, Dan Pinkerton, established a new school record as did the 880 relay team. Ed Snyder accomplished the lone Sectional victory by the trackmen winning the quarter-mile.

The strength of this season's squad was exemplified by a contested second place finish at the North Side Relays, first in the Culver Invitational, and the third place Sectional finish. A strong array of juniors, including the entire mile relay team, and several fine sophomores leave promise of more track power next season.

Opportunities expose students to ideas

Activities

Rows of eager faces surrounding a student tutor, the thrill of the final curtain call, exciting as well as educational tours of museums, and money-making projects for needy families occupied hundreds of students' spare time. The informal atmosphere sustained by students and teachers alike furthered acquaintances in all phases of school life. Through clubs devoted to expanding educational, social, and cultural horizons, individuals were exposed to ideas which proved invaluable to them as potential contributors to an ever-changing society.

Student Council directs homecoming;

Leading Student Council in an active year were Greg Lintjer, president; Ron Woodruff, vice-president; Ann Goldsmith, secretary; Dan Higgins, treasurer; and Brad Howe, parliamentarian. Starting the school year off with the first social event, Student Council sponsored "Kick-off '69", a dance after the first home game of the season with Elmhurst. Next on the schedule of events were two orientation workshops for the representatives to help insure that Student Council be a more efficient working body. October saw the coming of Snider's second annual Homecoming with a new innovation—a powder-puff football game played by the girls before the bonfire. The Christmas project for this year was an entirely different type of project. With many hours of planning, the Council sponsored 720 gifts and six parties for the State Hospital and Training Center. This project, which allowed giving on a personal basis, proved very rewarding and worthwhile.

The new year brought the passing of the new constitution after several months of rewriting and revising. This document satisfies the need of the Student Council for a definite and exacting set of guidelines. The second semester also brought the need for a cafeteria committee which tried various plans to solve cafeteria problems and to improve the cafeteria's condition. Through investigation of facts and a questionnaire testing support, the Council was able to obtain permission for union bands to play at any school dance. Students came back from spring vacation to witness a precarious testing of power when the Student Council sponsored the Student-Faculty Basketball game. Looking toward next year, Council held a Freshmen Orientation which helped to acquaint incoming sophomores with Snider's traditions, activities and room plan. With the coming of May, the Beautification committee worked to repair the school grounds and Student Council elections were held. This year's Student Council officers concluded the 1969-70 Council activities with a session of orientation with the newly elected officers.

Squires donates $500 for scoreboard

Selling black and gold Snider Panther bumper stickers was the first project started this fall by Snider's boys' service club, the Squires. The stickers, 25¢ apiece, were bought by dozens of students and applied to the bumpers of their cars.

Led by president Doug Jackson and sponsored by Mr. Eric Beebe, English teacher, the club participated in various service projects throughout the year. In May, the club entered a four-man bicycle team in the Lettermen-sponsored "Little 500" bike race. After several laps around Lane Junior High's track, Squires emerged victorious.

Perhaps the most important project by Squires was the donation of $500, along with a donation by the senior class, toward the purchase of a basketball player scoreboard to be added to the existing team scoreboard in the gymnasium.

sponsors mum sale, Sadie Hawkins

The annual kick-off picnic at Shoaff Park was only the beginning of a profitable year for Entre Nous. Working together, the junior and senior girls provided an enjoyable Thanksgiving for the residents of the Allen County Nursing Home and as the busy Christmas holidays neared, the girls found time to provide a complete Christmas for two area families.

With helpful sponsors Miss Gump and Mrs. Johnson, president Amy Loyd, vice-president Diane Schertz, secretary Kris Larimore, treasurer Sue Stillinger, and Sergeant-at-arms Terri Babcock, managed to make the projects of the new year as successful as those of the year gone by. During sectionals, yellow mums were sold to female Panther fans. Along with March days came Entre Nous' annual Sadie Hawkins or "Dogpatch Daze" dance complete with all the trimmings.

As the year came to a close a sophomore mixer was held in hopes of interesting sophomores in joining the club in the following year. The grand finale of the year was the honor banquet held for the senior club members. It brought to an end another successful year for Entre Nous.

Scroll staff inspires record

Memories of the Scroll seem (for the staffers, at least) "stuck" (no pun intended?) together into a large ball of dried rubber cement—the gummy substance used a la fingers, when the glue brush was nowhere to be found, to "paste" the paper.

Wedged between the nightmares of breaking in cub reporters . . . receiving nasty letters from the school press about their ability to meet deadlines . . . publishing three tabloids, those embarrassing mini-papers . . . running out of Excedrin while laying out the paper . . . printing corrections of the spelling of Mr. Schuckel's name in every other issue . . . undergoing weekly discussions of the relevancy of editorials . . . getting a response of "no comment" on every question during an interview with a National Merit Scholar . . . deciding whether or not to have a general manager . . . literally begging reporters and/or bribing them with promises of a byline to write articles . . . deciding whether an opinionated article should be a letter-to-the-editor, or a guest editorial, of if it even should be . . . arranging a group picture (which is not too bad, until the photographer does not make his scheduled appearance) . . . the Scroll staff did manage to publish about 30 issues.

Also among their accomplishments, the newspaper staff managed to break several precedents. For example, an editorial on sororities inspired mass communication through a record number of letters-to-the-editor. Two new positions were also created: Scroll room rumbler and sports secretary. (Those two distinct honors went to Nancy Horber and Sharon Wahl, respectively.) The staff also journeyed to Ball State for the first time to attend (or was it to skip?) Journalism Day classes. Achieving a new relevance to and response from the student body characterized the 1969-'70 Scroll staff aims.

Surrounded by typewriters, copy paper, grease pencils, piles of unidentified pictures, rulers, and pages in triplicate, the '70 Safari staff managed to produce a 202-page diary of the 1969-1970 year at Snider. Through words and pictures, the staff tried to capture the many "Magic Moments" that made the school year.

Additional color, better club and activity coverage, copy on the division pages, more candid shots, a color section devoted to the school building, and a closing section characterized many of the changes and improvements instituted by this year's capable staff. The editors experienced better cooperation and distribution of work and duties from knowledge gained at I.U.'s high school summer journalism workshop held in Bloomington.

Images staff edits literary magazine

Images, Snider's literary magazine this year consisted of over twenty pages of original poetry, prose, and art work composed by Snider students. Students submitted their works to their English teachers. The works were then read and considered for publication by the Images staff. Directed by faculty advisor, Miss Ann Netterfield, the staff, Liz Giffin, editor; Sherrie Bucholz, assisting editor; Steve Schmidt, art editor; and Sue Bangert, prose and poetry editor, selected the poems, stories, and pictures which they thought best expressed the thoughts and feelings of the times.

NFL participates in speech, debate

The National Forensic League (N.F.L.) had a very profitable year. This year the organization captured many trophies and ribbons in speech and debate. Steve Chaplin, sophomore, did an outstanding job by qualifying for the state meet in the area of Impromptu Speaking.

By tradition the year's first event for N.F.L. is the car wash held in the early fall as a money making project. Warsaw, Columbia City, Muncie, Belmont, Kokomo, Concord, New Haven and Evansville were among the cities where speech and debate meets were held. The time from October to April, members of the speech and debate teams attended meets almost every other Saturday.

The activities for N.F.L. came to an end with elections of next year's officers and a picnic. This year's N.F.L. was lead by Kristin Arentz, president; Mike Snyder, vice-president; Peg Reece, recording secretary; and Janet Rice corresponding secretary. The second semester saw the club taking field trips to local circuit night court and the Lincoln Museum. The club rewrote and passed a new constitution also during this time. In May the members worked to raise money for the club by sponsoring a carwash. An annual picnic was held at the end of the school year to conclude the Social Studies Club's activities.

custom for the Spanish Club, it had its annual Christmas dinner combined with the Home Economics Club. The Spanish Club planned the Spanish food which the Home Ec Club made.

A speaker at one of the monthly meetings was Mr. Derman Villacorte. He told the club about Peru, his native land. They have also had other speakers who spoke in Spanish and entertained the members by relating their experiences and speaking in quick Spanish.

Musicians play in All-City Orchestra

This year's orchestra began with a busy, tight schedule. In late October it was the featured orchestra in a clinic for area music teachers. Performing a long program as was required for the clinic so early in the year, made the orchestra become a functioning unit much earlier than usual. The fall was spent making new black formals for the girls' uniforms. The Christmas season saw the orchestra performing for various events including the annual Yuletide Festival. Besides participating in Snideroriented musical activities, orchestra members participated in All-City orchestra which was under the direction of Mr. R. Seeger.

Regional and state solo and ensemble contests followed one another in late January and mid-February. Immediately after the state contest, the pit orchestra for "Funny Girl" began rehearsals. "Funny Girl" was performed on March 20, 21 and 22 and three weeks later the orchestra competed in N.I.S.B.O.V.A. organizational contests receiving a superior rating.

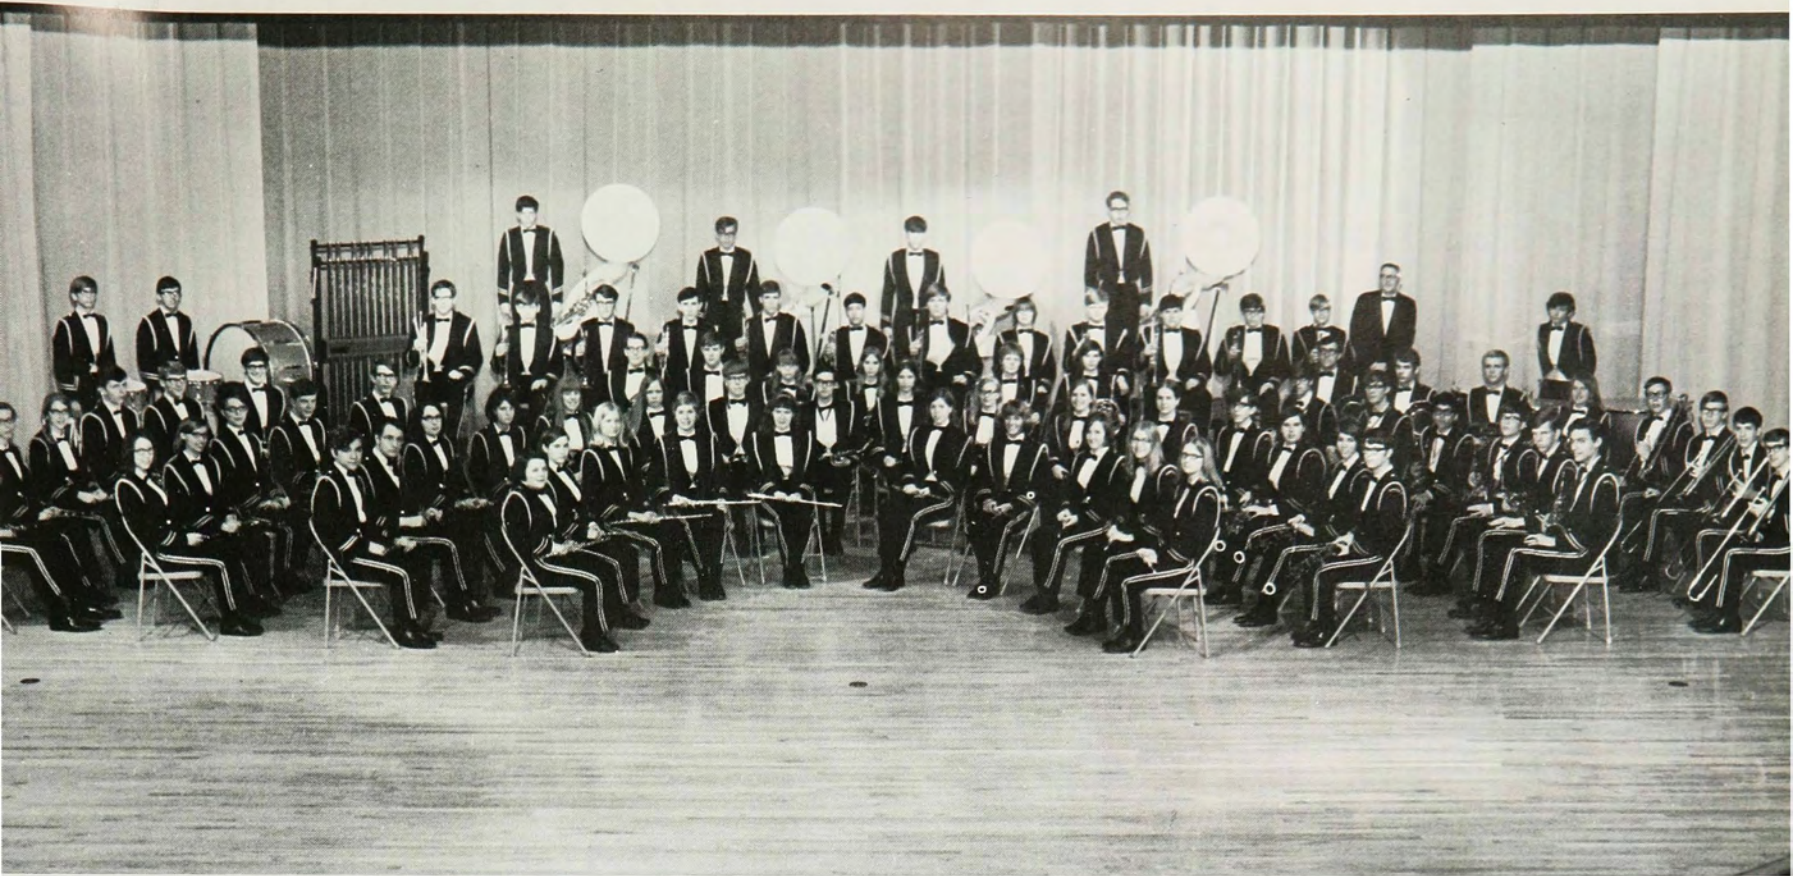

May concluded the orchestra's activities with an invitational concert at Ball State and the Spring Concert. The string orchestra performed for two additional events—the Senior Mother's Tea and the Honor Banquet. Leading the Concert Orchestra this year were Thom Willis, president; Linda Stedman, secretary; Linda Groves and Cindy Davies, music librarians; Peggy Gage, girls' quartermaster; and Bill Cearbaugh, boys' quartermaster.

Band earns superior NISBOVA rating

The Concert Band, composed of 78 selected sophomores, juniors, and seniors, had a very successful year under the direction of Mr. Charles Smith. The band, with some additions from sixth period, marched at home football games, in the Veterans Day Parade, and in NISBOVA Marching Band Contest in Goshen where they earned a first rating. The band played as a "pep band" for home basketball games and pep sessions. The band lived up to its name as a concert group by participating in the Christmas and spring concerts and in the NISBOVA organizational contest in April where they earned another first rating. Many Panther band members earned individual awards in the district and state NISBOVA solo and ensemble contests.

Choir is counted as a solid course and students are given full credit for it. Required in choir class are the writing of reviews on fine arts events, reports on composers, and performing before the group once a semester. To be a member of Concert Choir, one must audition and be chosen by the director.

The choir gives concerts at various times during the year. Usually a concert is presented in October, a Yuletide Festival in December, and "Sights and Sounds of Spring" in May. Concert Choir also goes caroling at Christmas time for the benefit of the elderly.

Cheerblock supplies backing and spirit

"Grrr-eat Panthers, the Panthers are great!" How could any team think of losing when they are backed by 200 of the loudest and most spirited girls at Snider? The Panther basketball record of 18-2 is proof enough that the lost voices, sore throats, and tired muscles did not go to waste at all the basketball games, both at Snider and away.

The Girls' Cheerblock, led by President Jill Armstrong, put many hours of hard work and practice into their hand routines, spirit songs and lively cheers. Bright gold ties were added to the traditional uniforms this year, showing any opposition that the Black and Gold are the best.

Other hard working officers were Kris Larimore, Vice President; Barb

Purdy, Secretary; Deb DeCarlo, Treasurer; and Denise Porter, Sergeant at Arms. Class Representatives were senior Marilyn Gwaltney, junior Kay Kinney and sophomore Paula Parmeter. The Cheerblock was sponsored by Miss Susan Cox, who along with the helpful cheerleaders, turned 200 loud and excited girls into a well organized and spirited group.

Lettermen offer services to Snider

Sportsmanship and athletic ability are the requirements for a member of Letterman's Club. These boys have all earned their letter for participation in one or more of Snider's sports. Many of the senior members have received their letter jackets.

During the year the Lettermen collect canned goods at Christmas, organize bike races in the spring and serve as ushers at athletic functions such as football and basketball games.

The club officers are President Brad Hall, Vice-President Brian Sickafoose, Secretary Barry Widdicombe, and Sergeant-at-Arms Mike Lewis. The club is sponsored by the coach whose sport is in season.

GAA participates in archery, gymnastics

The Girl's Athletic Association or G.A.A. finished its second year at Snider. It is open to any girl who is interested in sports and gymnastics. An interest sheet is filled out by the girls at the beginning of the year to decide what they will do during the year. This year, they decided on archery, basketball, volleyball, and gymnastics. This year, too, the G.A.A. Volleyball teams played against other high schools in the city. They won all their games. Besides all these activities, G.A.A. does almost all of the work for the "Greatest Show On Earth," Snider's gymnastic Show.

The G.A.A. officers were Nancy Petrick, President; Linda Curtis, Vice-President; Jan Fisher, Secretary; Diane Bruick, Treasurer; Julie Hollingsworth, Historian.

FTA holds Christmas party for orphans

FTA, which stands for Future Teachers of America, participated in many activities this year. On October 31 the club sponsored an after-game dance. Halloween was the major theme and the dance took place on the night of the North-Snyder football game. For their Christmas project, members of the club visited the Allen County Children's Home and held a party for the orphans, one of the club's most rewarding projects. FTA also has an opportunity for club members to obtain actual teaching experience with its program at Glenwood Elementary School. Members who wished to go to Glenwood during their study halls could do so by receiving special passes and being scheduled to attend a specified class at Glenwood. In March FTA began making plans for its annual "Elf Month". Because April began over Spring Vacation and many members were confused about what to do during the teacher honor month, Elf Month ended early. However, April is still the traditional teacher month for FTA. At the end of the year the club had a picnic to honor the senior members and to install the officers for the next year.

FTA was led by president, Sandy Hamilton; vice-president, Marilyn Gwaltney; secretary, Sue Bangert; treasurer, Cheryl Lambert; and historian, Marlene Martin.

Senior Cathy Bonnett spends her study hall tutoring in a first grade Glenwood classroom.

Personalities share moments, experiences

Album

Personalities—students, teachers, and administrators—formed the foundation of school, the center around which all aspects of education revolved. In today's society, never has the school played a more important role, and never have school personalities influenced young adults so much. Students entered a widening scope of interests and experiences as new acquaintances flourished and old friendships strengthened. Some old traditions were broken, but new ones were established as impressionable students sought to contend with explosive ideas and critical decisions.

Panthers find leadership in Mr. Davis

"Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you." These words which hang in Principal Maurice Davis' office are indicative of what he tries to uphold as a standard for students to follow.

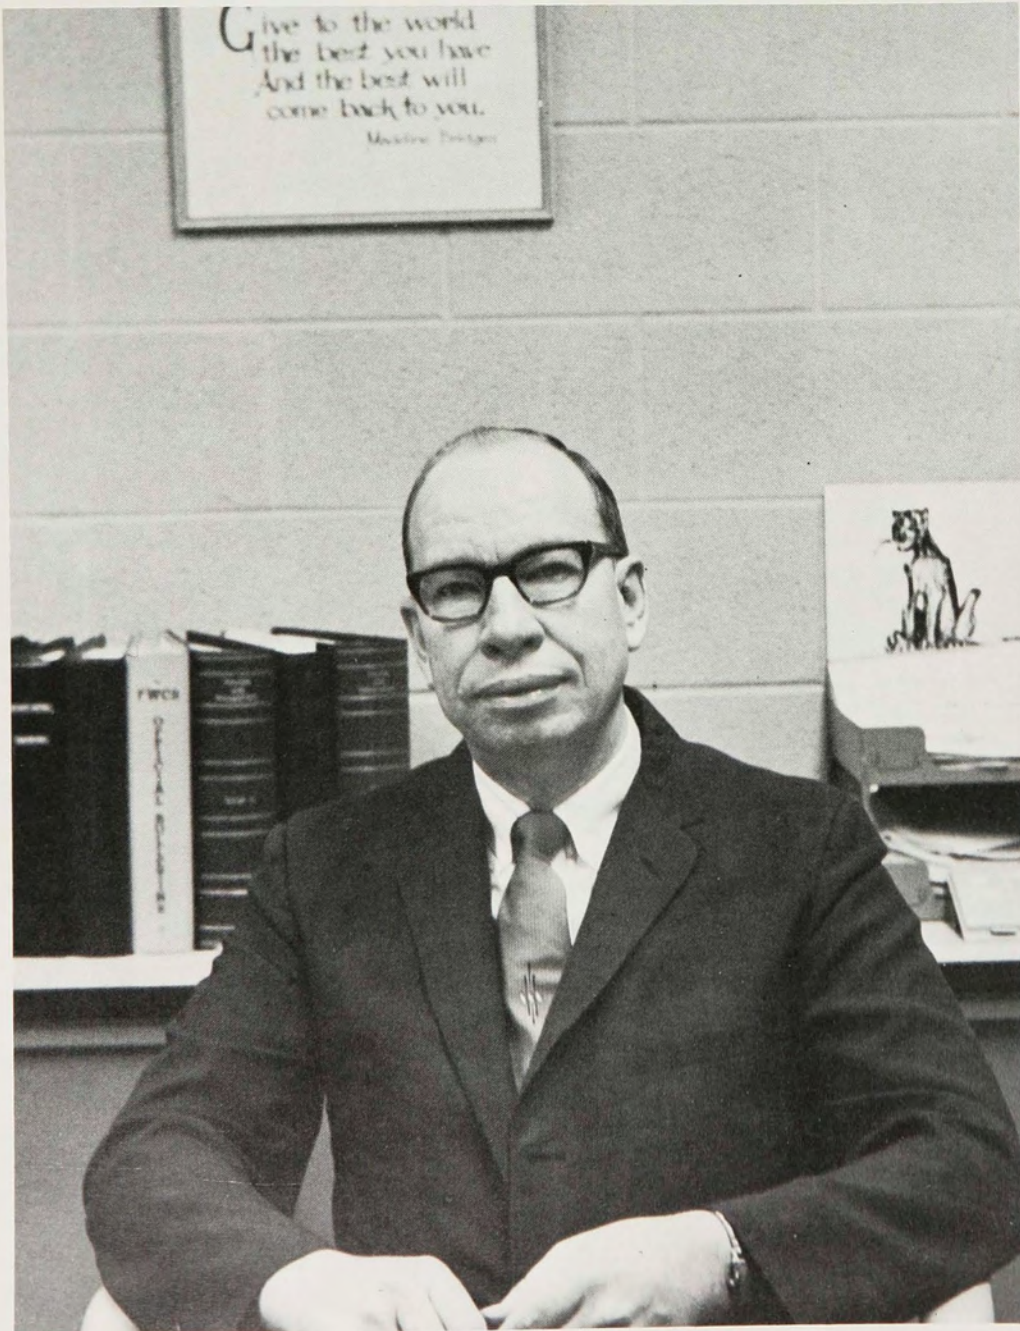

After graduating from Ball State Teacher's College and receiving his B.S. and M.A. degrees, he attended Purdue and Michigan State Universities. Mr. Davis spent twelve years in teaching before entering the area of administration.

He has also spent several years coaching at Fremont High School and later at Plymouth High School.

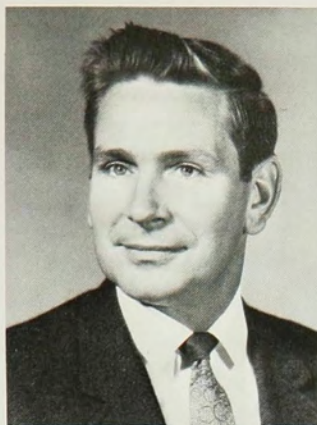

Rarely missing a game, he demonstrates his tremendous interest in school activities. An outstanding leader, Mr. Davis shows deep dedication to Snider High School and its many students. Mr. Davis's high standards have contributed greatly to the excellent reputation Snider has maintained throughout the city.

Office, library form integral part of school

The librarians, study hall clerks and secretaries help the student body make use of our facilities for better learning. Many students find their study halls a good time to catch up on extra studying, or sleeping as the case may be. The study hall clerks help to maintain order so that the student may have the proper atmosphere in which to study.

Study halls provide a good time to use the facilities of Snider. The librarians are always available for aiding students needing any assistance in finding materials. Our library has an abundance of material that may be used and borrowed so that the students may have profitable years of learning.

The secretaries are a vital part of the school day. They are always willing to help students with various questions they might have about attendance, appointments, absences, and permits.

Sporting the Spirit Stick the Class of '70 won, grinning senior officers Jim Murdoch, Jill Armstrong, Barb Young, and Ted Sadler clown around in the courtyard.

College, future success beckon seniors

Senior class activities for the 1969-70 school year included donating blood to the Red Cross Blood Bank, winning the Spirit Stick to keep, and providing approximately seven hundred dollars toward the purchase of a basketball player scoreboard.

In the fall of 1969, senior class officers were elected. Jim Murdoch, president; Ted Sadler, vice-president; Barb Young, secretary, and Jill Armstrong, treasurer led the Class of '70 for the school year.

Christening the year in November was the debut of the senior play, The Miracle Worker. Liz Tee-tor portrayed Annie Sullivan; Sue Dayton, Helen; Jill Armstrong, Kate, and Dave Troxel, Captain Keller, in the drama of the life of deaf, dumb, and blind Helen Keller.

Several seniors excelled in athletics. Mike Lewis, fullback, was named to the All-City Football Squad and received the Blanket and Sertoma awards. All-City Basketball team members were Dave Elmer, Brad Hall, and Jim Stanczak. For the first time, a Hall of Fame for Snider athletes was installed in the gymnasium lobby.

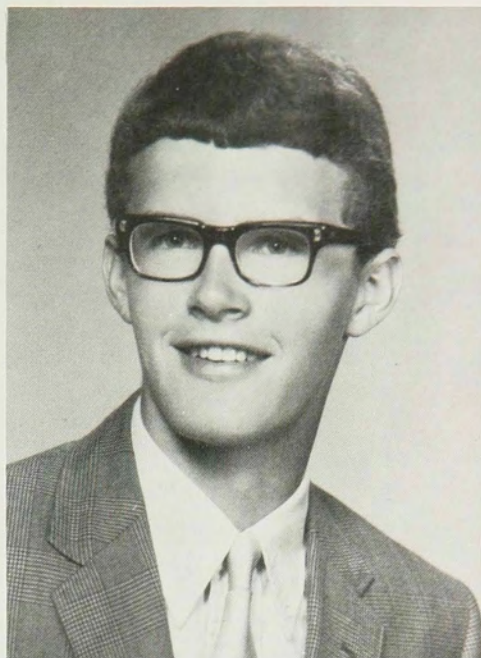

April began the final home stretch with the traditional senior banquet highlighting the month. Crowning May activities was the senior prom, "A Time for Us," carrying out a medieval theme of castles, knights, and fair ladies, with dance music by Mr. Richard Seeger's orchestra.

The last week of May was annual Senior Week, with lunchline priority, patio privileges, the Senior Door and Stairs, and free cokes, compliments of the administration.

On Sunday, May 31, the highlight of twelve years of education took place—commencement. Valedictorian John Taylor and Salutatorian Marilyn Gwaltney led the Class of '70 to receive their diplomas in the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum. President Jim Murdoch led the graduates in the tassel ceremony, symbolic of the end of twelve significant years, but also, the beginning of something new.

John Taylor, Marilyn Gwaltney named val, sal

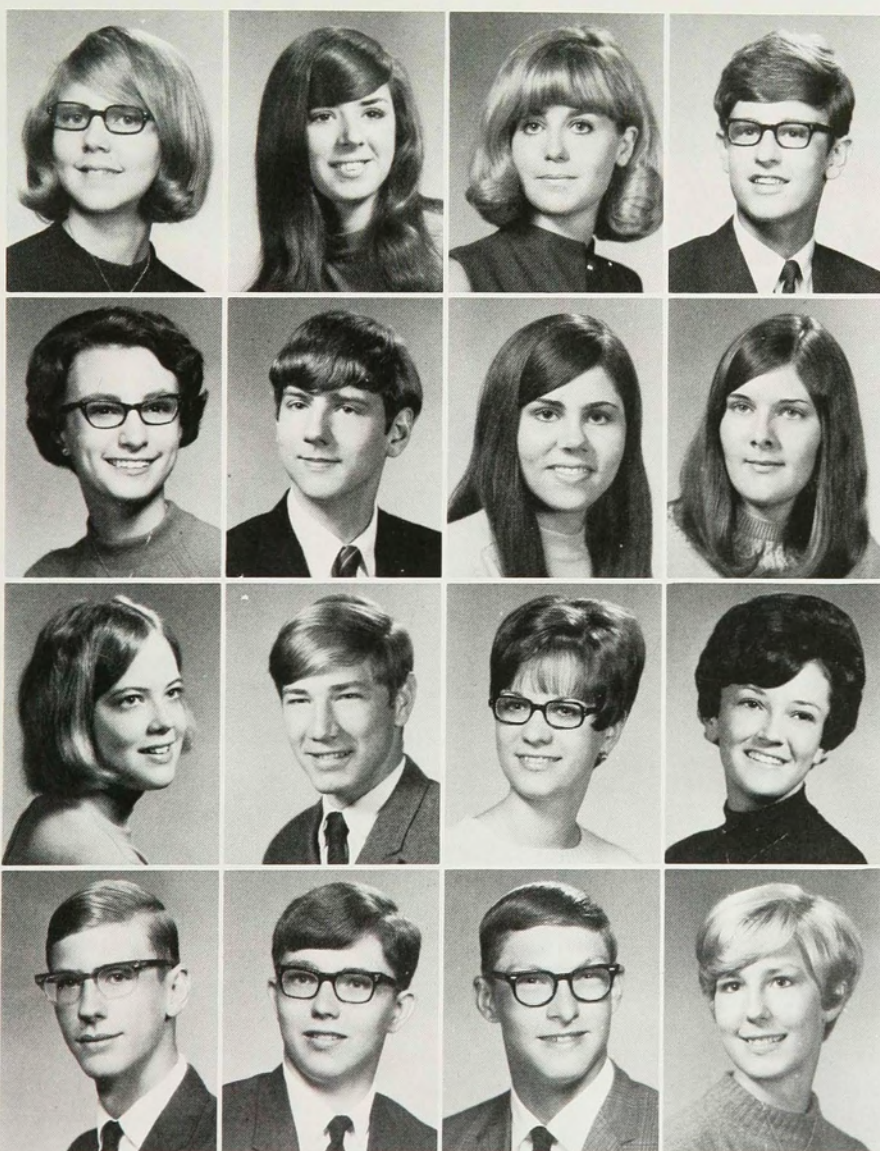

Honors for the Senior class included the areas of academics, athletics, leadership, service, and citizenship. In athletics, Mike Lewis and Randy Secrist won blankets, and Mike won the Sertoma award. Citizenship honors were awarded to Barb Young and Greg Lintjer, who won the "I Dare You" and DAR awards. Greg was also named Kiwanis Best Boy Citizen. In academics, Ann Goldsmith, Marilyn Gwaltney, John Taylor, and Ron Woodruff were named to the 6-semester Principal's List. In May, John was announced Valedictorian and Marilyn, Salutatorian.

School activities occupy seniors' last year

"Little girls have pretty curls, but I like Oreos," sings Robby Heikowsky, at a football pep session.

Though January finals bring dreaded moments, for seniors they represent their last high school final exams. Below: A sense of lightheartedness prevails in senior classes after the first semester. Assembly, Commencement honors seniors

Approximately 550 Snider seniors gathered in the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum for Commencement exercises, before a crowd of family, friends, and relatives numbering 6,000. Valedictorian John Taylor led the Invocation and was followed by the speaker, Mr. Phil Eskew, Commissioner of IHSAA. Diplomas were presented to each student individually by Mr. Maurice Davis, principal. Senior class president Jim Murdoch led the graduates in the tassel ceremony. Commencement was concluded with the Benediction by Salutatorian Marilyn Gwaltney, and the Class of '70 filed slowly out of the Coliseum as high school graduates.

Mike Sidebottom leads junior class

September 6, 1969, marked the day that the Junior Class of the '69-70 school year re-entered the halls of R. Nelson Snider High School. The Class of '71's sophomore year was great and their junior year was already looked upon as an upcoming success, for they became active in athletics, academics, fine arts, publications, and clubs. The first few weeks turned out to be a traumatic experience. The junior class was the host for the sophomores at the annual get-together, The Sophomore Mixer. As the days passed by the chemistry students were flopping and fumbling with problems and experiments, but the junior class did not just stop here and flounder; they won the Spirit Stick twice by yelling themselves hoarse and won, without question, the much coveted Spark Plug Award. The season was now spring and all good juniors had just finished their finals and their research papers.

The basketball season had just terminated and the Class of '71 began giving thought to their biggest event of the year, the Prom. The organization of this activity was led by the class officers, president, Mike Sidebottom; vice-president, Dan Ruble; secretary Pam Collins, and treasurer, Rick Snow, class sponsors Mrs. Mary Jane Stolte and Mr. Dean Fast. The music at the prom was presented by Jimmy Steir and his Orchestra in connection with the oriental theme, East of the Sun. The last event on the agenda for the Class of '71 was the Junior Breakfast, hosted by the sophomore class as repayment for the junior-sponsored sophomore mixer. With the year gone, the juniors can hold their heads high as they recall the memories of their past, and they can look forward to an even more profitable senior year.

Twelve Tri-Kappa winners named

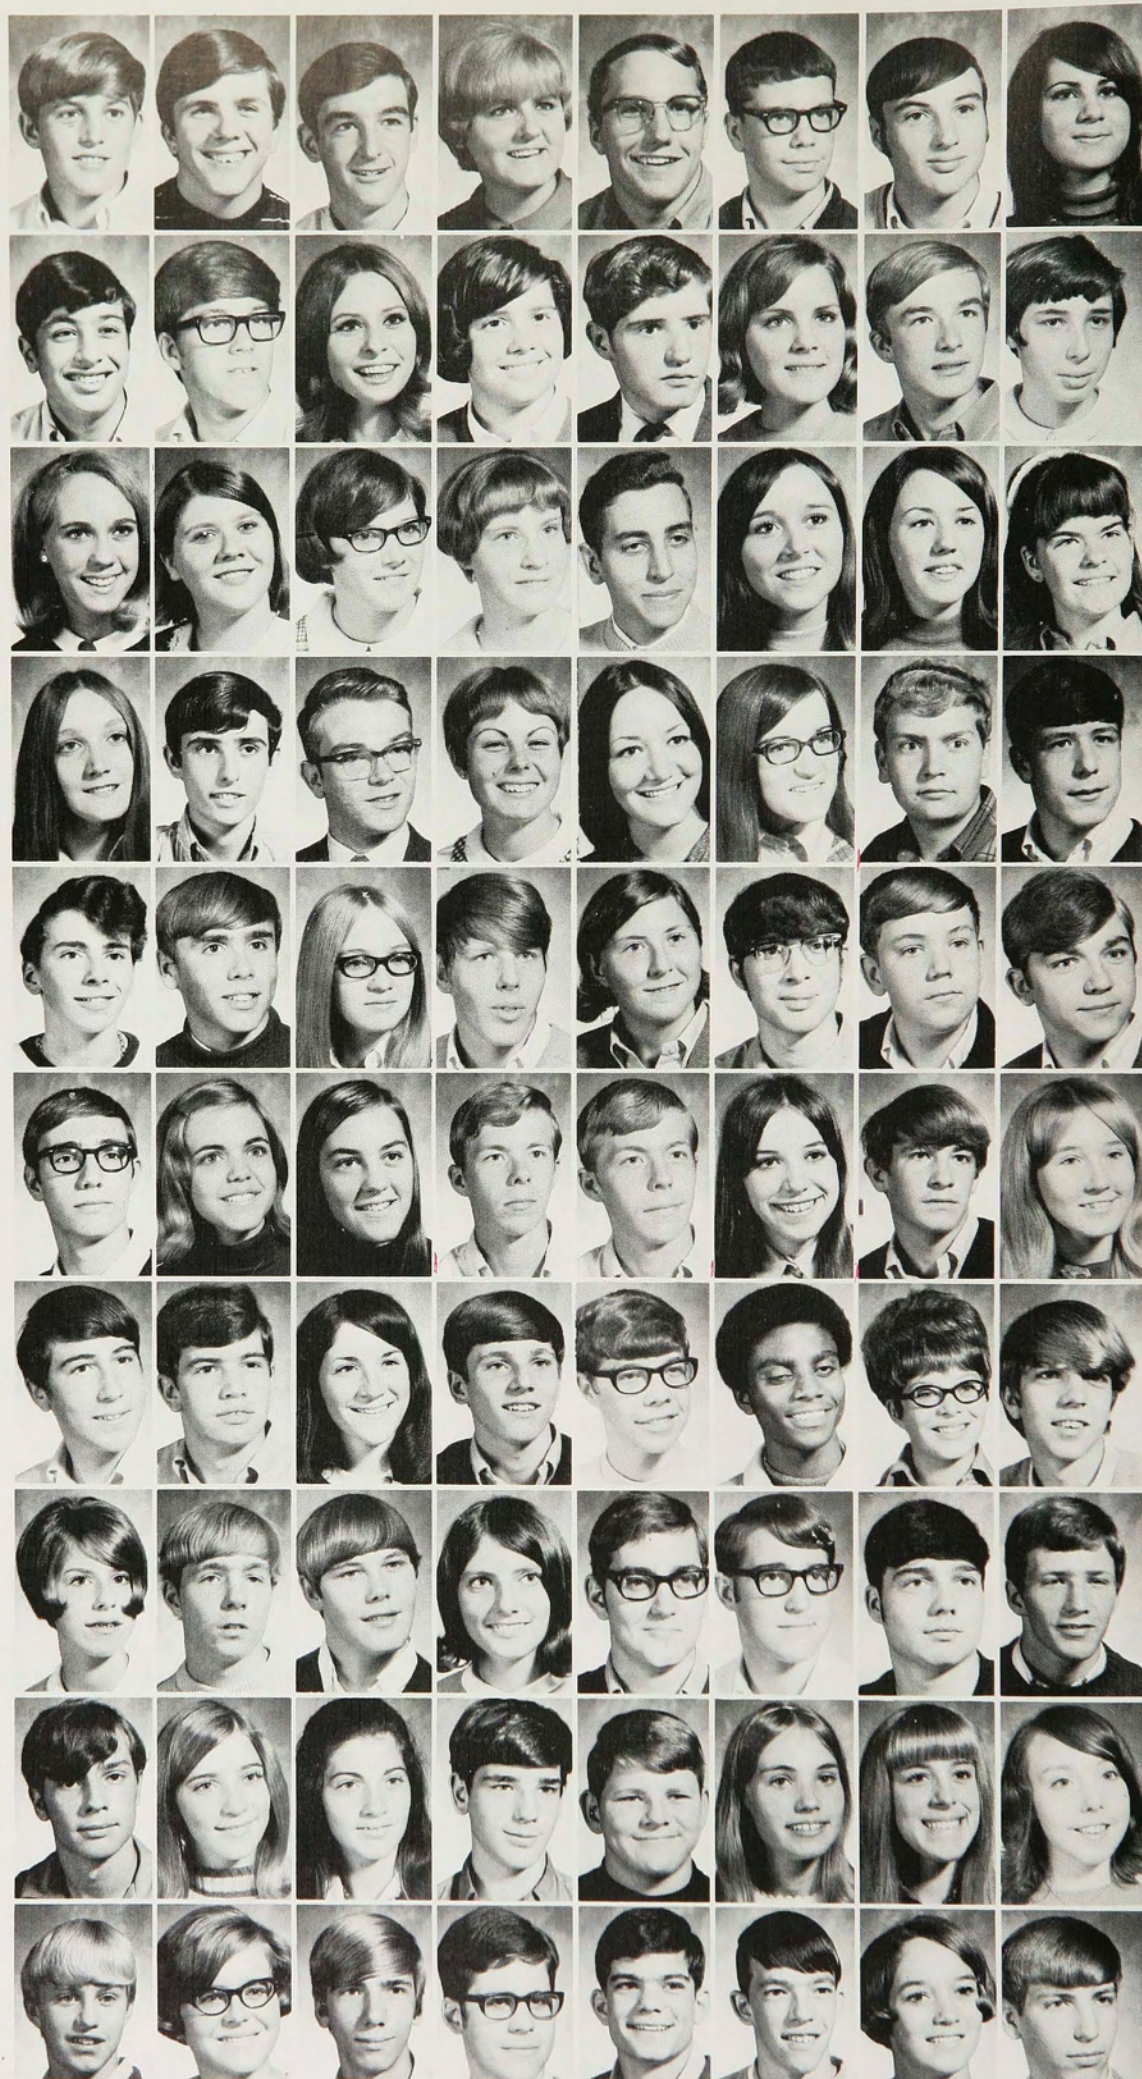

The twelve junior recipients of the Tri Kappa Award are Sandra Tjepkema, Janet Thorington, Lauren Strotz, Ellen Seddon, Neal Sadler, Nancy Petrick, Rhonda Peters, Janet Mohrman, Doug

Moeller, Rosalie Johnson, and Diane Callant. Receiving her award from Mr. Maurice Davis is another winner, Teresa Troxel. These winners represent the top 2 percent of the junior class.

year instills many dreams, memories

And so another year ends . . .
Empty gym bleachers,
Deserted locker rooms,
Vacant seats, and silent halls
Are left.
But memories remain . . .
Of close friends and good teachers,
Of thrilling victories
And disheartening defeats,
Of homecoming roses
And "A Time For Us,"
Of graduation exercises
And gold tassels,
The memories of "magic moments."

Acknowledgements

New yearbook techniques, additional color, and a larger opening section characterized the 1970 Safari. The dedicated assistance of photographers, editors, and staff members made memories of the year a reality.

Deep appreciation goes to Roberts Studio for underclass pictures, Paul Watters for senior photos, music formals, and the title page, and Mr. Pat McKendrick for academic and opening pictures.

I wish also to thank the American Yearbook Company, Robin Reynolds for the special effect photos on pages 4 and 5 and for his cooperation throughout the year, and Cheryl Lambert, for efficiently scheduling and setting up sports and club formals. Recognition also goes to Ann Goldsmith, Liz Giffin, and Julie Chapin for their hard work on the activities, academics, and senior sections and especially to Mrs. Mary Cunningham, our adviser, who was tremendously patient and encouraging.

With the 1969-70 school year ended, memories of "magic moments" will remain in the corners of our minds, and within the pages of our Safari.

what next?

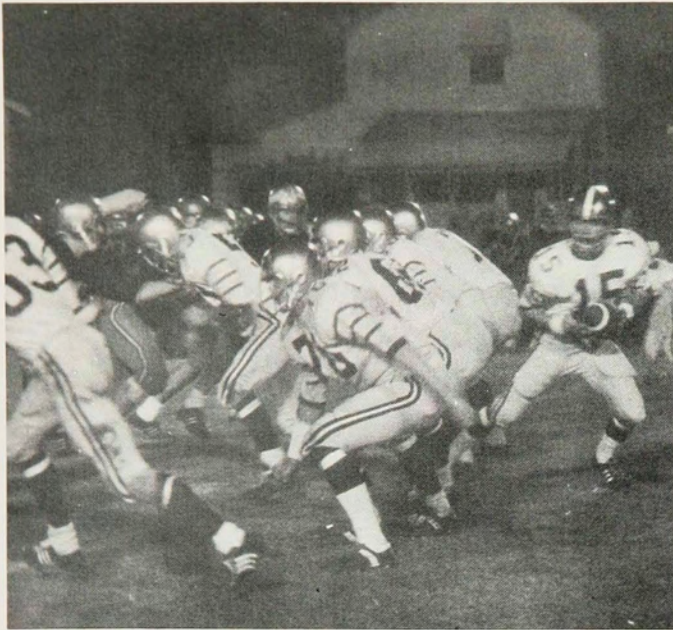

After high school, what: travel, work, service, college or technical school?

Regardless of your choice, how far you go in this space age depends partly on your imagination but primarily on your education and training. Conquering new horizons will demand more knowledge, more skills, more training and more specialization.

Our free-enterprise system, the backbone of our country, has given us the highest standard of living in the world and the greatest degree of individual freedom. And it offers you the opportunity to make your mark in any field of endeavor you choose.
